THE POTOMAC VERY HIGH

REPORTS FROM HEADQUARTERS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Friday, July 10, 1863.

The historic stream of Antietam has again been opened by the echoes of cannon. A vigorous artillery and cavalry fight took place this morning near Williamsport, preliminary to the great expected conflict. The cavalry and artillery of Buford, aided by that of Kilpatrick on the left flank of the enemy, dislodged him last evening from the village of Boonsboro, on the road from Boonsboro to Hagerstown, driving him two miles beyond Beaver Creek. This morning the sharp skirmishing continued with equal success, until the enemy rested on strong positions near Funkstown. The artillery were then replaced by fresh batteries.

To detail the positions and locality of the corps would at this moment be improper. It is thought that the enemy will make a vigorous stand. To cross a portion of their forces would enable our army to attack with ease their rear, and they will probably settle, taking the chances of victory or disorganization.

The following are names of killed and wounded in the skirmishes of last night and this morning:

KILLED.

Silas H. White, 5th New-York cavalry.
Walter O. Kennedy, 3d Indiana cavalry.
John Slater, 5th New-York cavalry.
Geo. Townsend, 5th New-York cavalry.
George Pierson, 5th New-York cavalry.
Corp. Oliver, 5th New-York cavalry.

WOUNDED.

Henry M. Whitney, 1st U. S. cavalry—foot.
Sergt. John Larkin, 5th New-York—thigh.
Rudolph Crommelin, 3d U. S.—mouth.
August Feller, 12th Illinois—face.
Benjamin Spriggin, 17th Pennsylvania—foot.
G. W. Casler, 1st United States—foot.
J. G. Dussoid, 6th Illinois—seriously.
William Allen, 6th Illinois—slightly.
J. E. Ayres, 5th New-York—slightly.
John Sherwood, 5th United States—face.
E. A. Miner, 5th New-York—slightly.
Judah Daley, 34 Indiana—thigh.
Thomas Stronse, 5th New-York—leg.
William H. Decker, 5th New-York—thigh.
William W. Davis, 12th Illinois—hip.
Marcus M. Rice, 1st Vermont—slightly.
John Burkard, 2d United States—head.
Hy. Williams, 2d United States—head.
M. Marks, 2d United States—knee.
Capt. V. S. Smith, 5th New-York—slightly.
Rudolph Kremmeling, 2d United States—mouth.
Patrick Harman, 2d United States artillery.
Sam. McCann, 1st United States cavalry—head.
W. V. Marfield, 2d U. S. cavalry—side and arm.
Captain Low, 1st U. S. cavalry—slightly.
Lieutenant Trimble, 1st U. S. cavalry—slightly.
Lieutenant Jerome, Signal Corps—very slightly.

To these may be added

Mr. Paul, Correspondent of The Times, wounded very slightly.

SPECIAL DISPATCH FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 10—10:30 P. M.

Citizens residing near Edwards' Ferry and Conrad's Ferry, report the Potomac to have risen six feet at those points. Those competent to judge say it will take five or six days for the river to regain its usual level, even if no more rain should fall.

A telegram received here to-day from Medical Inspector TOLLES, at Gettysburgh, states that the number of rebel wounded thus far known to be in our hands is one ten thousand, not including those wounded captured by our cavalry.

Six thousand of our wounded have already been sent to northern hospitals. Dr. SMITH, Acting Assistant Surgeon-General, this morning sent large supplies of necessaries and comforts to Frederick for the use of our wounded. Surgeon-General QUARTERMAN of New-York, accompanied by A. S. LATHAM, of Albany, left here this morning for the battle-field, to look after the New-York wounded. An officer just returned from the army reports that our forces occupy Williamsport, with both the roads west of the river. The rebels occupy the old Antietam battle-ground. Apathy there is intolerable.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, July 9.

From letters recently received here, it appears that, on Friday last, it was ascertained by Gen. MEADE that Gen. STUART was preparing to make one of his customary raids on our rear, to cut off our trains and prevent communication with Westminster, Baltimore and Washington.

Gen. GREGG, with his cavalry division, was ordered to advance from our extreme right and intercept him. Taking two brigades and a battery, he proceeded to Hanoverian, his mission, and met Stuart about two miles from our lines, already on his way to execute his design.

Gen. GREGG charged the rebels and was at first repulsed. He rallied his men and charged again and routed Stuart's force, who left his dead and wounded on the ground in their hasty retreat. Among the killed were two rebel Majors. Our loss was from 20 to 40 killed and 110 wounded. Artillery was used on both sides.

Another letter from headquarters says that Gen. MEADE's movements are very energetic, and he may decide to cross the river in pursuit of the rebels should they escape from this site.

The rebels have sent over the river cattle, horses, wagons with plunder, &c.

It is represented that some Union prisoners have been placed in charge of Gen. IMBODEN, and sent up the river, in cross probably at Hancock.

Early on the morning of the 8th inst., two gentlemen from Pleasant Valley, near Harper's Ferry, arrived at Frederick, and reported that the rebels had been hastily employed in carrying over the river the grain and other articles left there in the hasty evacuation of that point a few days ago.

The rebels afterward visited the farm-houses in Pleasant Valley, to procure horses and search the premises of citizens; but on learning that a body of our troops were approaching, they hastily decamped.

The rebel spy RICHARDSON, recently executed by hanging, was well known in the army as a peddler of books, stationery, etc., and had been in the various camps for a long time.

Two other spies were arrested, but their execution has been delayed in consequence of one (a negro) having promised to make important disclosures. A fourth is now in one of our camps under strict surveillance.

The wheat-fields in Frederick and the adjoining counties are yielding an abundant harvest.

There is great rejoicing among the farmers in consequence of the rebels having been foiled in their plans to harvest the crops on "Confederate" account.

REPORTS FROM CHAMBERSBURGH.

CHAMBERSBURGH, Penn., Friday, July 10.

News from Williamsport shows that the rebels have lost two out of three ferry-boats by the late high water. Very little of their transportation had reached the Virginia shore, but the most of their wounded have got over.

The report from Gen. SMITH's advance states there is no material change in the position of Gen. LEE's troops from yesterday. It is not believed that LEE will attempt to defend the line of Antietam Creek, but has concentrated his army near Hagerstown, where he will, without doubt, await an attack.

Stragglers and deserters from LEE's army still continue to arrive in large numbers. LEE's headquarters are still at Hagerstown.

TROOPS FROM GEN. FOSTER.

FREDERICK, Thursday, July 9.

Upon Gen. NAGLEE reporting at headquarters with troops from Gen. Foster's North Carolina command, Gen. MEADE immediately assigned him to a command at Harper's Ferry.

PRISONERS IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Friday, July 10.

About 2,500 prisoners have arrived in the last few hours by the Northern Central Railroad.

DISPATCH FROM GEN. HALLECK.

ST. LOUIS, Midnight, Monday, July 6, 1863.
BY TELEGRAPH FROM WASHINGTON, Monday, July 6—11 P. M.

To Major-Gen. Schofield, Commanding the Department of the Missouri, St. Louis:

The three days' battles of Major-Gen. MEADE, at Gettysburgh, Pennsylvania, have resulted in a complete and unequivocal victory. The defeated rebel forces under LEE are in full retreat, and will be properly pursued. The details of these battles have not been received, but enough is known to justify the announcement of a complete and decided victory by the Army of the Potomac under Gen. MEADE.

(Signed) H. W. HALLECK, General-in-Chief.

TROOPS FOR HARRISBURGH.

TRENTON, N. J., Friday, July 10.

Capt. JOSEPH A. YARD left this city this evening with a company of 64 men for Harrisburgh. This is the fourth company Trenton has sent to Pennsylvania.

GEN. MEADE'S PLATFORM.

Gen. MEADE addressed a letter to the officers of the Loyal League of New-York in April last, in response to an invitation to attend the mass meeting in Union square.

Being then in command of the Fifth army corps, he was, of course, unable to accept the invitation, but in expressing his regrets, he improved the occasion to record his earnest sympathy with the Association, saying that he cordially subscribed to its cardinal principles, and it would have afforded him much pleasure to cooperate with them in giving public expression of the same. He then goes on to say:

My views, which you ask for, are very brief and simple. They are, that it is and should be the undoubting and unhesitating duty of every citizen of the Republic to give his whole energies and to contribute all the means in his power to the determined prosecution of the war, until the integrity of the Government is reestablished and its supremacy acknowledged. Deprecating as useless all discussion as to the cause of the war, the fact of its existence and the necessity for its continuance should alone occupy us. For its successful prosecution and termination, I am clearly of the opinion there is only required union and harmony among ourselves, and the bringing to bear men and means proportionate to the power and resources of the country.

For the purpose of securing union and harmony, I know of no measure better calculated than the organization of your National Loyal League. Its broad and simple platform is one to which citizens of all parties can readily subscribe; and I have no doubt its effects will be most salutary in proving to those who are in arms to subvert the Government, that whatever differences of opinion may exist on minor points, upon the main point of there being but one Government and one flag, we are determined and united. I have the honor to be, Sir, most respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. G. MEADE.

JAMES A. ROCKWELL, Esq., Secretary of Loyal National League, New-York.

GEN. FARNSWORTH.

Gen. FARNSWORTH, who fell in the late battle before Gettysburgh, last week, was not Brig.-Gen. John F. FARNSWORTH, of the Second Congressional District of Illinois. The latter officer was disabled during the campaign on the Peninsula, while making a gallant charge. It was for this that he received the commissions of Gens. SUMNER and SEDGWICK, and was appointed Brigadier-General. But the injury was so serious as to impair permanently his health; and being unwilling to receive pay and emoluments which he was performing duty, he resigned his commission some time since. He was in this City last week, but was confined to his room all the while, and I fear will never again regain his health. J. E. M.

From California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, July 9.

Arrived steamer St. Louis, from Panama; ship Chapin, from Boston. Sailed, ship Napier, for Liverpool, with 32,000 sacks of wheat.

The markets are quiet and prices unsettled, on account of the fluctuations and the uncertainty of the future value of gold and rates of exchange. Butter received per to-day's steamer sold at 30c. Increased inquiry for wool to ship East.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, July 9.

The two wings of the Democratic State Convention at Sacramento are endeavoring to make a platform upon which all can unite.

Gen. Grant "Feeling the Pressure of Johnston's Iron Hand."

MOVEMENTS ON THE PENINSULA

BALTIMORE, Friday, July 10.

The Richmond Dispatch, of Wednesday, July 8, contains a leader on the battle of Gettysburgh. It says:

"We feel as well assured that Gen. LEE, if he has met the enemy in a pitched battle, has inflicted a terrible defeat upon them, as we do that we are living, breathing, sentient beings."

The Dispatch then alludes to a telegraphic dispatch announcing a great battle being fought on Sunday last, in which the Yankees were whipped with a loss of 60,000 men, and winds up as follows:

"We already begin to see glimpses of peace if this telegram only prove half true. But we as have no power which we do not dictate ourselves."

The Dispatch contains but one short editorial on Vicksburgh, which is as follows:

"It is evident that GRANT begins to feel the pressure of the iron hand which JOHNSTON has cast around him. Everything now depends on skill and valor, and in these qualities we have always been the master of the Yankees."

The following telegrams are also from the Dispatch. They are decidedly rich when the facts are taken into consideration:

MANCHESTER, Va., Monday, July 6.

On Saturday night our cavalry fell back, drawing the enemy from their works. Gens. EWELL and LONGSTREET flanked the enemy and gained the heights. A general fight ensued yesterday, in which the enemy were routed and LEE captured 40,000 prisoners, according to all accounts. Gen. KEARNY was killed. There is fighting at Williamsport, between JOHNSON's cavalry and several regiments of infantry, and a division of Yankee cavalry under PLEASANTON.

MANCHESTER, Va., Monday, July 6.

The latest, which seems to be reliable, is that the fight was continued on Sunday, and was the bloodiest of the war. Gen. HILL fell back in the centre, causing the enemy to believe that he was retreating. The enemy upon this advanced. Then EWELL and LONGSTREET advanced their right and left wings, surrounding the enemy. We then took the heights for which we have been contending, and captured 40,000 prisoners. They refused to be paroled. Gen. PICKETT's division is now guarding the prisoners to Martinsburgh.

The Richmond Enquirer, of the 8th inst., has received the following account of the battle of Gettysburgh:

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURGH.

Our loss is estimated at 10,000 at the battle of Gettysburgh. Between three and four thousand of our wounded arrived at Winchester, July 7. Gens. ARMISTEAD, BARKSDALE, GARNETT and KEMPER are killed. Gens. SCALES, PETTIGREW, JONES, HEWS, ANDERSON, HAMPTON and HOKE are wounded. The Yankee army is estimated at 175,000 men. The fighting lasted four days and is regarded as the severest of the war, and the slaughter unprecedented. The enemy are said to have fought well. We captured 40,000 prisoners.

The following items are taken from the Dispatch of the 8th inst.:

FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Tuesday, July 7.

Letters from reliable sources, dated Winston last night, say that a courier who has just arrived reports an engagement progressing between the retreating enemy and our forces near Free Bridge. It is supposed that the enemy are cut off.

RALEIGH, N. C., Tuesday, July 7.

The House has been debating the Militia bill all day. No final action taken.

The Senate has passed the bill to punish the aiders and abettors of desertion.

FROM VICKSBURGH AND VICINITY.

BOLTON STATION, Tuesday, July 7.

Yesterday, about 12 o'clock, the Yankee cavalry crossed the Big Black at Birdsong's Ferry, and advanced into the interior, but were promptly met by Wharton's brigade, and driven back across the river.

A courier, just in from Edwards' Depot, says the entire command of Gen. GORMAN crossed the Big Black near that place last night. If so we will have warm work to-day. GRANT is evidently feeling very uneasy in regard to events transpiring in his rear. There was very little firing at Vicksburgh yesterday.

(NOTE.—I send the above to show how little they know at Jackson on the 5th, what had really occurred at Vicksburgh on the 4th.—EDITOR.)

REPORTS FROM NATCHEZ.

NATCHEZ, July 4, Via Monroe, July 5.

The crops at Oayka and Brookhaven were uninjured by the Yankees in their late raid.

The Federal ram Switzerland and a gunboat passed up this morning. The former was disabled, working only one wheel.

A commissary from the Trans-Mississippi Department says that Vicksburgh and Port Hudson are well provisioned.

Gen. LANAX, of Texas, says that Gens. SMITH and MAGRUDER are fast augmenting their armies.

Gen. TAYLOR has captured many Yankee prisoners and contrabands, and will hold them as hostages for the return of the one hundred and one Captains and hold up Banks upon the charge of enticing Mr. Dennis.

TAYLOR holds all the Southerners he captures who have taken the oath of allegiance to the United Government.

THE RAIDS IN ALABAMA.

The Huntsville Advocate, of the 1st, published a detailed report made to Gen. ROSSE by W. H. JAYNAR, of Leighton, Ala., showing the damage committed by the National forces in their raids between Big Bear Creek and Town Creek in April last. The total amount of loss inflicted upon the rebels is given at $1,857,000.

OUR FORCES ON THE PENINSULA.

The Dispatch says, speaking editorially of the movements around Richmond:

"The only information we have of the enemy's movements comes from the Yankee papers, and even in this we are left in the dark as to the real intent of the movements of the enemy, which, we fear, are well matured and will be executed before we can have time to meet them. We hear of the enemy's gunboats and transports passing up the James River, and of their landing at Harrison's Landing, and of their occupying the Peninsula in force. We hear of their occupying Williamsburgh, and of their advance on the Yorktown road, and of their occupying Yorktown. We hear of their occupying Gloucester Point, and of their fortifying there. We hear of their occupying Tappahannock, and of their fortifying there. We hear of their occupying Urbanna, and of their fortifying there. We hear of their occupying Mathews, and of their fortifying there. We hear of their occupying Yorktown, and of their fortifying there band of guerrillas, while leisurely returning to the house of a Mrs. CAGE, a "Union" lady in this immediate neighborhood, who has a husband and two or three relatives in the rebel army. Gen. DOW, who was wounded in the last attack of the 14th, had received leave of absence, and was supposed at headquarters itself—so I am informed at least—to have been long since on his way home.

Instead of this he had remained here sick, and was residing, I believe, at the house of Mrs. CAGE, when the guerrillas came upon him, and he found himself literally "caged."

There is more sober truth and meaning about this little account of a jeu d'esprit than may at first occur to the reader. We are in all cases surrounded by precisely just such charming and innocent cages to entrap our too-confiding military commanders, and only have lost whatever we have had ever since the war began, with very few and extraordinary exceptions.

To distrust the loyalty and devotion to the Union basis of any ladies having husbands and brothers in the rebel army, to protect them of harboring and aiding rebel Captains, who pass backward and forward right through our lines, in carrying dispatches between JOHNSTON and GARDNER! Oh, even 'tis that it would be only a wholesome precaution to see the houses of such fair "Unionists" searched from top to bottom, in case of there being arms concealed anywhere!—to go still further and assert, as some measures very broadly do, that "Unionists" of such a stamp, who are secure—have no right to receive over us all during the war, but should be politely escorted to their null home—Dixie! oh horrible! this is warring upon women and children; this is not "chivalry." No!—the real way becoming loyal citizens in this disintegrate of their nation, is to forget how Northern ladies have been treated in the South by Southern gentlemen, to put in-pitch fork in these "loyal" wives of disloyal husbands) to put our sentinels to stand guard over their property, and wait an order of hurl to our foes! (Pickets like a hungry Yankee may have knocked on the head by the road side; to let them harbor our enemies to gobble up a Brigadier-General and his Staff now and then, by way of pastime, &c. Anything short of this is not what your West Point has all chivalry; it is—in the opinion of too many with great shoulder straps—uncivilized warfare upon our "erring brethren," and brutal abolition fanaticism. Thus we go on—like good old Dame Partington—sweeping back the ocean-tide of rebellion with the broom of "conservatism."

We had just heard of Gen. DOW, when the old Widow—he comes daily to supply us with fresh water, drawn in a cart from some distance, gave us the gratifying intelligence that the guerrillas were hovering so near his supply that he was afraid to go there only more. All this, I hope, will have the good effect to cause an immediate advance on the works; and if that is done with anything like energy, Port Hudson must fall. No one will be more delighted at such a result than the unhappy wretches confined in it—excepting their few leaders.

SHARP ENGAGEMENT.

Night before last, (Monday, the 29th,) at about 8 o'clock, a tremendous outpouring commenced, accompanied by volleys of musketry, which we fancied—for the "dull ear of the night," that it sounded from headquarters as if a sortie were being attempted, or a general engagement progressing.

The affair was simply this: The rebels not liking the cool manner in which we were pushing our approaches quite close to them, at the great new battery near the river, commenced annoying our working parties by throwing grape and shell among them, when the order was given—it is notable close by whom, but I think not from headquarters—to storm the "Citadel,"—the large rebel work immediately opposite our great battery.

Part of our troops were armed with hand grenades, which they threw out of our approaches into the rebel works, without getting our followed. The grenades being exhausted, they were sent back for a new supply; and on approaching the enemy's works a second time, they were met by several volleys of musketry, the enemy having evidently concentrated his forces up to that point.

The engagement then became very hot and determined on both sides. For about two hours the cannonading was as loud and continuous as anything we have yet had. Our sharpshooters deployed, and skirmishing was continued up to 3 o'clock the next morning.

We lost, on this occasion, two killed and thirteen wounded. The two killed lost their lives by one of our own hand-grenades. It had fallen unexploded among the enemy, and they flung it back among our own ranks. The enemy are said to have used some explosive bullets. A Surgeon who was engaged there had the case of a man who was wounded so singularly as to give rise to this suspicion. A spent ball had struck him in the forehead, without penetrating the skull, but all over his face were quite a number of small, irregular pieces of lead, some about the size of a buckshot and some larger, and of which the Surgeon extracted six or seven.

I am sorry to say that there are some very ugly reports as to the conduct of a few of the nine months' men, on this occasion—among them a portion of the Fourth Massachusetts. The whole of this nine months' arrangement is an absurd and most mischievous anomaly—but, like all other subjects, it has two sides to it, and I intend, on some other occasion, to point out how it works in this army.

COL. BURGE'S REGIMENT.

I should be guilty of unfair neglect if I failed to lay before the world what I have learnt of the behavior of one regiment in this Department—I mean the gallant Thirteenth Connecticut.

When Col. H. W. BURGE, their commander, was understood at headquarters to be willing to lead a general storming party in the forthcoming attack upon Port Hudson, he distinctly gave the Commanding General to understand that he would not like to accept the post until the antagonistic feeling of his regiment has been ascertained, for he would not have them enforced by his individual example.

As soon as Gen. BANKS' order calling for 1,000 volunteers was read in the regiment, 137 out of 220 immediately volunteered, upon which Col. BURGE at once accepted the honored post of leader. It is difficult to say on whom this reflects most credit—the Colonel or his men. It is true, they have not yet passed through the fiery ordeal; but what may we not expect from the valor and devotion of such men when the hour of trial arrives?

ANOTHER REBEL DIARY.

I gave, in a former letter, some extracts from the diary of a rebel prisoner. The telegraph operator, whom I mentioned as having just deserted to our lines, also kept a daily record of the doings in Port Hudson, and from it I make a few extracts that may prove interesting and suggestive to your readers:

"JUNE 1.—Sharpshooters still passing away at us. It is now evident that BANKS intends to make no attack, but to do everything and carve down, having surrounded us completely. We will be starved out in three weeks if no relief comes. Distant cannonading heard this afternoon, supposed by some of the morning come to the enlightenment on the way to relieve us.

"JUNE 2.—To-day we have a report, said to have been brought in by a deserter, that BANKS has gone with a large portion of his army to Vicksburgh to re-road to Clinton and the attack on Greenville Road, but I place no reliance on it. [illegible] very scarce, and [illegible] than 40 to July—so say.

[illegible]

"JUNE 18.—We have various rumors of reinforcements, but none of them can be trusted to any reliable source.

"JUNE 20.—We have rumors to-day of reinforcements being on the way to our relief. Distant firing was heard all night and day, but I place no confidence in the rumor.

"JUNE 23.—Occasional cannonading, and shell falling distressingly near to us this morning. It is now fully demonstrated that reinforcements are a humbug, and the rumor originated in the head of some [illegible] movement. Mule meat is to be issued to-day."

At this point the author suddenly broke off his narrative, and also very wisely—as connected with Port Hudson—dating writing in our Host as a deserter.

FRA BECHER ARRIVES AT BONAREMOVILLE, LA.

The following official dispatch was received at Gen. BANKS' headquarters before Port Hudson, on Monday morning, June 29, from Brig.-Gen. STEWART:

"I arrived here at 6:30 A. M. I found all secure for the present. The enemy have retired at least five miles. Cavalry scouts will go out on the two main roads without delay. I cannot speak in terms of too high praise of the admirable conduct shown by this gallant garrison. They defended their interior line with desperation. After the enemy had entered, they killed and wounded more than their own numbers. Deserters from the enemy confirm the accounts they had, and poverty as many rank and file of the enemy as there was in the garrison. The officers and men deserve all commendation and reward. Know no more in the meantime of the foes to call for their detention. I would respectfully recommend appropriate promotion for the Commander and the gallant Staff officers. Major J. D. BEARSE, Capt. E. R. NEAL, Capt. HEMMER, Lieut. FOSTER, Twenty-eighth Maine, and Lieut. A. K. BEARSE, Fifty-second Massachusetts."

NEMO.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

Steamers Fired Into by Guerrillas up the River—Evacuation of Donaldsonville by Our Forces—Rumors of an Attack on the City, &c.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, July 4, 1863—9 A. M.

The United States transport or express boat Zephyr returned last evening, having been fired into, six miles below Donaldsonville, wounding two men. Her flag is shot through. An hour afterward the steamboat Bavalle returned disabled, in tow of the Belle Edmonson. I have just visited both. The destruction on the Bavalle is considerable. A shell passed through her saloon leaving everything in pieces; then passed through a state-room, cutting a pillow and scattering the feathers over the floor and exploded. A 6-pound ball shot passed through and through her steam drum; her bell to that down two shot passed through her hull, causing her to leak, and one shot passed through the wheel-house. Fortunately she returned with all her valuable freight of stores, horses, &c., and is now discharging. She was disabled and drifting when the Belle Edmonson came to right her down, and took her in tow; but, however, until gunboat No. 2 came to their assistance, entertained the rebel flying artillery on shore with shot and shell and enabled them to make their escape. So far this out off communication between New-Orleans and Baton Rouge. The Belle Edmonson's wheel-house is riddled with Minié musket balls. It is surprising more were not injured. The rebels fired 6-pound ball or conical balls, and were themselves good marksmen.

CHARLES BULLITT, the popular Collector of the Port, has his house completely decorated with appropriate transparencies and banners in honor of the Fourth of July, and entertains his legal friends to-day. Dr. PERSON'S Church, on Lafayette-square, is selected as the proper place to read the Declaration of Independence, and every preparation has been made, by platforms for speakers on the Grand Boulevards, Canal-street. Everything promises well. Col. T. B. THARAS addresses the meeting this evening in Camp-street, and other prominent speakers will be in attendance.

There was great excitement all day yesterday, owing to the foolish rumor of an attack on the city by the Confederate forces back of Algiers. All the cannon were taken from the other side, and guns from the English fort. About 1,000 free and other negroes offered their services to the Governor. The city and State officials are drilling at their several armories. The excitement I think uncalled for. The enemy have very little artillery, no navy or transports; but calculate that the United States Navy will not fire on the city, in consequence of the large number of United States soldiers in the hospitals, and the Union men and families.

The following order appears this morning:

STATE OF LOUISIANA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, NEW-ORLEANS, June 30, 1863.

GENERAL ORDER, No. 26.—To supply, temporarily, the places of those who have been, or may hereafter be, called to other and more distant fields of duty, a brigade of Louisiana volunteers will be immediately raised for special service in the defence of the City of New-Orleans.

The term of service will be for sixty days, unless sooner discharged.

The brigade will consist of not less than four regiments, and will be raised, uniformed, armed and equipped in accordance with the laws and regulations governing the army of the United States. The Military Governor of Louisiana having consented, at the request of the General Commanding the Defences of New-Orleans, to take command of this brigade, appeals to the Union citizens of New-Orleans to rally in defence of their homes, their beloved city, and of that sacred flag and glorious Union to which they have voluntarily and solemnly vowed their fidelity and allegiance.

Persons desirous to raise companies for this brigade, can obtain enlistment rolls and the necessary forms and instructions of Capt. J. F. MILLER, Assistant Adjutant-General and Mustering officer, at Room No. 16, in the City Hall.

Companies of not less than eighty men will be immediately accepted and mustered into the service of the United States, for the special service designated, and the line officers elected by them, if found to be suitable and competent, will be commissioned.

By order of Brig.-Gen. G. F. SHEPLEY, Military Governor of Louisiana.

JAMES P. MILLER, A. A. G.

The National troops have evacuated Donaldsonville after its destruction. Gen. MOUTON, son of the Ex-Governor, is in the rear with a large force of cavalry, &c.

The rebel navalry are at College Point, 60 miles above, number not known, and the following order has just been issued by Gen. BANKS, who with Gen. BURNSIDE, Military Governor, and Capt. J. F. MILLER, U. S. A., Acting Mayor, are very busy:

NEW-ORLEANS, July 1, 1863.

By order of Brig.-Gen. BANKS, Commander of the Defences of New-Orleans—

No vessel for the present, public or private, will be cleared from this Department for up the river, unless by express permission from him.

CUTHBERT BULLITT, Special Agent of the Treasury Department and Acting Collector of Customs.

Five hundred of the laborers taken from Col. T. B. THARAS'S City Surveyor's force left this morning four miles on the Jackson Railroad, in the rear of Camp Parapet, to cut down the trees in the rear of the ridge, to repel an attack, and to place obstructions beyond. The very dry weather has made marching in the rear dry and safe. The city is full of rumors and the citizens much excited. Nothing from above as to movements, and no account yet of the battle at Port Hudson, unless we get it ex New-York from your Port Hudson correspondent, whose letters are much sought after here.

Gen. SEMMES is out of all danger, and very cheerful. He and his wife leave in a few days for New-York.

Arrest in Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Saturday, July 9.

HON. NAT. WOLF, candidate for Congress in this District, was arrested by the enrolling officers in Green County, brought in this city and sent to Gen. BURNSIDE, at Cincinnati, in consequence of these words, used in a speech to the people of Owen: "This is a John Brown raid—a war against Slavery; and he hoped every true Kentuckian would rise in arms in opposition to it." He was for secession, separation, or anything else against it.

FROM MEXICO.

News from Mexico—The Railroad Bridge to be Built at Metlac—Coal Discovered near Jalapa—Order of the Neutral Ambassadors at Tampico—Israelitish Bounties to be Given to Arms—Our Minister Resigns—Napoleon's Powers of Sequestration.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

HAVANA, Saturday, July 4, 1863.

Nothing fresh has been received from Mexico since the news brought by the French steamer Vera Cruz, of the occupation of Mexico City by the French, but as the English mail steamer Trent is due to-morrow or the day after, we may expect to receive by it further intelligence, and perhaps of a less one-sided character than that brought by the abovenamed French steamer. As the Trent touches at Tampico, on her return voyage from Vera Cruz, we may possibly receive direct intelligence from San Luis Potosi, which city, JUAREZ has appointed, to be the Capital and from where he can communicate directly with the first named port.

In extenuation of JUAREZ' abandonment of Mexico City without making any defence, it is alleged that it was impossible to defend it, and that the attempt to hold it would have only served to expose the inhabitants to unutilized suffering. It must be also recollected that the abandonment of the capital and retreating into the interior was the original line of policy intended to be pursued, and that the talk of defending Mexico City was, if really in earnest, only an after determination, the original course proposed to be pursued being that which JUAREZ has now followed out.

The garrison left in Puebla by Gen. FOREY amounted to 6,000 men—2,000 French and the rest Mexicans.

The works on the railroad were progressing, but to extend the line by way of Orizaba, it was necessary to build a very expensive bridge over the mountain gorge of Metlac. The American engineer, Mr. TAYLOR, at first proposed a wooden bridge, but it was necessary to reject this project, as the work would not have cost less than $1,000,000 to $1,700,000. A suspension bridge like that at Niagara was afterward thought of, but it was soon discovered that as a work of solidity and duration it did not suit, and Mr. LYONS, the present engineer of the railroad, determined to make a plan and the necessary details for constructing a stone bridge. This bridge will be 320 metres long, with an elevation of 1,000 feet from its foundations. As its construction must delay, as he were, that of the road, the Eco del Comercio advises that hands be set to work immediately, and to employ upon it the 2,000 prisoners from Puebla that had arrived at Orizaba, and who were to be put, it was said, to labor on works of public utility.

There had been received at Vera Cruz numerous specimens of coal extracted from some veins discovered in the neighborhood of Jalapa.

The Eco del Comercio, speaking of this subject, says: "We know that the discoverer of these mines, with a generosity worthy of all praise, appears disposed to give up the rights that he has secured upon them, provided the railroad company wishes to acquire possession of the mines, by constructing a branch that may give importance to the working of this combustible."

The civil and military authorities of Tampico published, on May 29, a proclamation ordering all arms in the Southern District to be given in, in order to arm with them the national militia called to the seat of war. The following are its main regulations:

ARTICLE 1. In the term of eight days, counting from the time of the publication of this proclamation in each municipality of the Southern District, all the inhabitants comprised in article 1, of the supreme decree of Dec. 25, 1861, shall deliver up to the first local authority of their respective domiciles the firearms that they may have in their possession.

ART. 2. In the same time private persons and merchants will make the declarations ordered in articles 2 and 3 of the above-named decree; the person infringing this and the former regulation, if a Mexican, will be considered a traitor to his country, and punished according to military law; and if a foreigner he will be expelled as pernicious from the national territory, in conformity with article 4 of the abovenamed law.

ART. 3. If at the termination of the time fixed for delivering up arms, the natives and foreigners should not have done it who are suspected of having them, searches will be made, intrusting them to officers who, besides fit, energetic and honest, have the necessary prudence for fulfilling this duty, so that in no case there may be occasioned disputes or claims against the nation.

ART. 4. The denouncing of hidden arms will be held a patriotic action, there being moreover paid to those who do this service for each gun with percussion caps, or rifle, and $1 for each flint musket, swords, and other similar weapons, will be paid for in proportion, and according to their utility.

The news of the taking of Puebla was known at Madrid on the 11th of June, having been received by telegraph from Paris, where the news arrived old England on the night of the 10th. It only took 15 days to convey the news from Havana to the Capital of France.

The above was brought by the new Spanish mail steamer Principe Alfonso, which arrived here from Cadiz yesterday, having made the passage in 18 days.

The Diario de la Marina in yesterday's paper publishes the following historical documents, as it calls them, copied from the Monitor Franco-Mexicano of the 20th of May, a newspaper published in Puebla:

DECREE OF SEQUESTRATION.

PUEBLA, May 21, 1863.

GENERAL: When you arrived in the Mexican Republic with the army of which the Emperor had confided to you the command, it was to redress the injuries of which France and its people had been the subject on the part of the Government of Mexico, you made known by your proclamations and important acts, which it is useless to repeat here, the object of the intervention and the favorable intentions of his Imperial Majesty toward this country. You have not ceased to repeat that conquest was not the thought of France; that if carried under the colors of the flag no other; with the object of bringing back the docility to itself, freeing it from the despotism which for so long a time weighed upon its destinies, ruined its finances and prevented all the material progress which its vast resources, its soil, so rich and so favored by nature ought to have allowed it to realize. In order to obtain more speedily the object intended by the intervention, you have invited the cooperation of honest men of all parties, you have made an appeal to all moderate opinions. The number of those who have come to place themselves under the loyal banner of France is relatively large, if we consider that the chances that the revolutions of which this unfortunate country has been the theatre for more than forty years, have extinguished every moral sentiment, perverting all the ideas of right and wrong.

When we look at your declarations, so clear and precise—when we consider that line of policy, so frank and disinterested, which accompanies all the distant expeditions of the undersigned—was it possible to think that you, the Minister of France? Was Mexico entitled to treat as deceitful the tranquilizing words which you addressed to it in the name of a Power, all of whose aspirations are for liberty, whose efforts and sacrifices have no other object but that of bearing the torch of civilization to oppressed peoples? Evidently not; and if men interested in the maintenance of the state of things which you came to combat, became it is for them, a source of astonishment, had not interposed between the docile inhabitants whom they make a profit of, and your loyal words, which they pervert, a formidable wall that this Power, which lives only by disorder, would have fallen.

The time has arrived for taking against these agitators more rigorous measures, which, by reaching them in their material interests, will make them understand, as I hope, that the time for forbearance has passed. What the wise exhortations which you have addressed to them, what the loyal intentions of the Emperor, which you have explained to them, have not been able to obtain, will perhaps be brought about by attaching the authority of these factious men who perpetuate the anarchy in this country, makes it their interest to cast the yoke of the country. The undersigned, in consequence, considers it necessary with respect to the men who hitherto have remained aloof from intervention, and have had, in other circumstances, sacrificed their fortunes, to inaugurate a measure striking at all the real estate belonging to Mexicans who bear arms against the Intervention. This measure might likewise reach the personal property, so that the revenues proceeding from them might be seized. You know, General, what is the effect of sequestration; it is to pass over to the powers of the State, as represented here by the Prefect, the management of all property belonging to citizens who may happen to be in the above-named position.

The undersigned, in consequence of the authorities, may carry into effect the measure, according to circumstances.

In the proposed decree which I have the honor to submit to you, and which I beg you to sign, if you approve of the regulations, I have reserved to the Commander-in-Chief of the army the right to diminish the severity with respect to citizens who are worthy of that favor, either by abandoning at a defined period the party which you have come to fight against, or from proving that they were dragged into it by force.

Be pleased to accept, General, the expression of my sincere regard.

BUDIN,

Receiver-General of the Treasury in commission.

To the General of Division, Senator, Commander-in-Chief of the Expeditionary Corps, Puebla.

The General of Division, Senator, Commander-in-Chief of the Expeditionary Corps in Mexico, &c.

According to the Memorial of the Receiver-General of Revenues in commission, I have judged proper to decree the following:

ARTICLE 1. The sequestration will be imposed upon all the real estate belonging to citizens of the Republic who carry arms against the French intervention, whether serving in the regular army, or in bands of guerrillas or others, in a state of hostility against France.

ART. 2. The personal property belonging to individuals comprised in the former article will be likewise subject to this measure, whenever this property can be seized.

ART. 3. The political Prefect of each State subject to the intervention, will form, with himself as President, a Commission of four members, which shall be commissioned to designate the individuals to be comprised in the above-named categories, and to make out the general list of rural and city real estate and personal property belonging to them.

ART. 4. A copy of this list will be published in all the localities of the country subject to the intervention, with the consent of the Prefect, warning the tenants, renters and debtors of the property and credits sequestrated, that they will not be legally exonerating except by paying their amount to the Collector of the inland customs of the district where the objects sequestrated are situated.

ART. 5. A copy of the above-named list, certified by the Prefect, will be, as soon as it is published, transmitted to the Custom-house Office to assist at the time of receiving.

ART. 6. The agreements relative to leases and lettings, or others of any kind that may be shortly of made by the Prefect to turn to account the property not actually occupied, will be likewise transmitted to certified copies to the same Collector to serve as legal title against debtors.

ART. 7. It is strictly forbidden, under all the penalties that are formulated by the law, to the agents for collecting the inland revenue to demand of debtors a larger sum than that set marked in the lists. The only exception is for expenses in advance to obtain the payment of the quantities due and which ought to be added to the sum.—The Government.

ART. 8. The Collector of Customs will give a receipt for each sum paid, and will include all the receipts of this class in a particular department with in his books and in his monthly account. This will be headed, Payments Proceeding from Property Sequestrated.

ART. 9. The General-in-Chief reserves to himself the right of deciding, according to the decision of the Prefects, on all petitions that may be presented, both for the withdrawal of the sequestration, and the restitution of the values received in virtue of the preceding regulations.

ART. 10. The present decree will be immediately published, printed and circulated throughout the country, subject to the intervention; it will be also done hereafter in all the States of the Republic, to be executed according to its form and tenor by all the Prefects that may be appointed to them.

ART. 11. Fifteen days after its publication the Committee mentioned in article 2 will proceed to make out the list. In it there are to be included all those who have not returned to their homes, or who are not prisoners of war.

ART. 12. In case that after the making out of this paper and sending it to the Collector, the Prefect should be informed of the emigration of one or several of those under his administration, there will be made out a supplementary list, to be clothed with the same formalities as the preceding, to form a title of receiving.

ART. 13. The Receiver-General of Revenues in Commission is charged with the execution of the present decree, which will be notified to the Chief Commander of each Department of State, by conduct of the Head of the General Staff.

Given at Puebla, the 21st of May, 1863. FOREY.

AFFAIRS IN VENEZUELA.

The Insurrectionists Still Active.

HAVANA, Saturday, July 4, 1863.

Porto Rico papers, giving an account of the fresh disturbances at Venezuela, have been received. The following is the account of the Boletin Mercantil of that place, with respect to these events:

"As we have heard, some heads of party made a declaration against the treaty of peace celebrated between PAEZ and FALCON, and they were not few who followed the new flag, proclaiming for Gen. COMAGO.

A small steamer of the Government, the commander and crew of which had joined the revolters, left Laguayra for Porto Cabello, and a few days after appeared with some forces, landed them at the last-named port, took possession of all the warlike materials they met in the place, destroyed the arms that could not be taken away, and returned back to Puerto Cabello with the two or three sloops-of-war that were at Laguayra. The Spanish war-steamer Isabella II., of 16 guns, was at the last-named port, and its commander thought it proper to send a launch, with 30 men, to protect, if it should be necessary, any Spaniards that might wish to take refuge on board of a national vessel."

The Independiente, of Caracas, in its paper of the 8th ult., gives a few additional particulars upon the same subject.

"There prevails in this City more agitation, produced by the events at Laguayra and Puerto Cabello. Yesterday morning it was known in this city that the Governor of Carabobo had left Valencia on the 4th ult., and gone to Puerto Cabello, where a pronunciamiento had taken place, it was said, against the treaty of peace and for the continuation of the war. Almost at the same time the Government was informed that the steamer Venezuela had left Laguayra without its being known for where, and afterward that its commander was in connivance with the military commander of the place, Col. JOAQUIN GALAN, for it ought to be known that Col. PAEZ, appointed chief of operations of that coast, is incapable of any act of infidelity to his duties. Lastly, the telegraphic communication being interrupted, a messenger from Maiquetia announced the landing at Laguayra of Col. A. OLIVA, with about 400 men, supporting as his flag the pronunciamiento of Puerto Cabello. The first act of the revolters was to go to the Custom-house. The agitation of the city is therefore, natural, because such actions surprise their authors and are contrary to their good feeling. We can say for certain that the Government has now more than ever the means notably to make itself respected, but to reduce the authors of this new and impudent rising. To-night the city will be guarded by 2,000 men, who will very soon reestablish order in Laguayra. Fortunately if these events retard the hopes based on the treaty of Coche, they are not enough to destroy it. The wish for peace is universal.

The Orthography of Admiral Foote's Name.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

My attention has been recently called to an article in the WEEKLY TIMES, from your daily of the 27th ult., relative to Rear-Admiral FOOTE, in which you very justly make honorable mention of him; but from a want of knowledge of the facts, I presume, charge him with caprice. The facts are these: Nearly all the members of the FOOTE family in the United States sprung from NATHANIEL FOOTE, who emigrated with his family from England to Watertown, Massachusetts, about 1630 took the freeman's oath in 1634, and emigrated through the wilderness, with others, to commence the settlements on the Connecticut River at Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor. Tradition records that they were fourteen days on their way through the wilderness.

NATHANIEL FOOTE settled at Wethersfield in 1640, and was a pioneer and proprietor of that town. His second son, ROBERT, emigrated to Branford, Conn., and was an early settler and proprietor of that town, and from him Admiral FOOTE was descended.

NATHANIEL FOOTE, the proprietor, as the records abundantly prove, spelled his name terminating with an e. See Farmer's Genealogical Register of the Early Settlers of New-England, octavo, 1829; Goodwin's Genealogical Register of the Foote Family, octavo, 1856. Gov. FOOTE, of Connecticut, was one of the originators of Mr. GOODWIN'S book. Every genealogist and antiquarian of the country knows the weight of these authorities.

Rear-Admiral FOOTE'S grandfather and sire were devoted—is the most momentous that can be discussed in the career of woman. Her anxieties, her joys, her experiences and her sufferings, are from themes fit for poets, and have been so from time immemorial. The authoress of Faith Gartney's Girlhood does not strike a very lofty strain. It is a quiet little ballad of home that she sings, and sings well. The work is published by LEGGAT, of Boston.

—A book for boys—especially those who are at sea, or have a disposition that way—is Robert, the Cabin-Boy, published by M. W. DODD, No. 506 Broadway. It is customary nowadays, and suits the story of a lonely cabin-boy, who finds friends and family by the cheerful and fortunate circumstances that early piety has produced.

—The inexhaustible theme of the Holy Land finds another essayist in Gen. LEWIS WALLACE, who contributes a volume of extensive reflections on what he saw there, under the title of Around the Pyramids. It is published by LEGGAT, No. 418 Broadway.

—A Series of Letters on the Ministry of the Gospel, by FRANCIS WAYLAND, D. D., will attract the attention of clerical readers. They are written with much sharpness and discuss the great questions in the ministry actually fulfilling the great purpose for which it was appointed? Other cognate topics are powerfully touched upon by the writer, whose peculiar views will doubtless find many supporters.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

KINGS COUNTY VS. MILITARY POWER.

The Baltimore Police Commissioners and their Position in Your Aspect.

The action of the Kings County authorities, in the well-known Fort HAMILTON case, seems likely to involve the Executive of the State in serious trouble with the National authorities. Our readers doubtless remember that some, in consequence of the orders of the Secretary of War, the Police Commissioners of the City of Baltimore were arrested and brought North, they were placed in charge of Col. BURGE, the Military Commandant at Fort Hamilton. Upon application by some friend of the Commissioners, a writ of habeas corpus was issued in behalf of the prisoners by the County Judge of Kings County, and directed to Col. BURGE.

The Colonel, after consultation with his superior officers, replied that he must respectfully decline to comply with the demand, and retained his prisoners in custody.

The Sheriff, to whom the reply was given, returned a contemptible answer to the Court, and the matter rested. The military force of the State was under the control of Gov. MORGAN, and he, it was well known, would decline, in the existing exigency of public affairs, to interfere, and the writ was never obeyed.

Taking advantage of the different political complexion of the present State Executive, the counsel of the Commissioners has appealed to Judge GARDNER, of Kings County, for an alias attachment against Col. BURGE, that he be compelled to show cause for the contempt shown by him for the behests of the Court.

Judge GARDNER held the subject under careful consideration for several days, and finally constrained to do so at the petitioner desired. He therefore issued the following:

WRIT.

The People of the State of New-York, to the Sheriff of the County of Kings: We command you, as we before commanded you, forthwith to apprehend and attach Col. MARCUS BURGE, of Fort Hamilton, in the said County of Kings, and cause him to be immediately before our County Judge of the said County, at the chamber of our said County Court, in the City Hall, in the City of Brooklyn, to answer for his contempt in not obeying a certain writ of habeas corpus to him directed, and on him duly served, on the relation of ALEXANDER E. WEED, and have you then there this writ of attachment.

Witness, the Hon. SAMUEL GARDNER, County Judge of our said County of Kings, at the City Hall, in the said City of Brooklyn, this 7th day of July, 1863. SAMUEL GARRISON,

JOHN C. VAN LOON, Clerk. County Judge.

Attorney for relator, J. N. SUMNER, Clerk.

That Sheriff CAMPBELL was placed in a cheerfully embarrassing position, may be inferred from the following

RETURN.

I return to the within writ of attachment that I am unable to arrest the within-named Col. MARCUS BURGE, as within commander, the said Col. BURGE being commandant of Fort Lafayette and Fort Hamilton. I have endeavored to obtain entrance and access to Fort Hamilton, which is held and garrisoned by armed troops of the United States, well armed and provisioned, and cannot be taken or the arrest effected, without the aid of a large force of troops with artillery. I further return that I have been formally notified by the officer of the day in command of Fort Hamilton that they were prepared to resist any attack on the fort, or any attempt upon my part to arrest the body of Col. BURGE within-named, who is commandant of the fort. And I further return that the whole militia force of Kings County (except the Seventieth regiment) is now in the service of the United States, in the State of Pennsylvania, and out of the County of Kings; and that the said Seventieth regiment, as I am informed by Col. GARRETT, in command of the same, is now under marching orders, and not subject to my control, and I have no force or arms within or under my control sufficient for the purpose of executing the within writ.

ANTHONY F. CAMPBELL, Sheriff of Kings County.

Dated BROOKLYN, July 9, 1863.

Unfortunately for the Sheriff, the Seventieth regiment is not only beyond his control in the matter, but we understand and have every reason to believe that it will be garrisoned at or near Fort Hamilton by the United States Commandant, and would be, in case of an attack upon the Fort, its defender rather than its assailant.

Steps will be immediately taken to bring the matter before Gov. MORGAN, and every effort will be made to induce him to interfere against the National power. What course the Executive will take is of course impossible to state, but that Col. BURGE'S line of conduct is very clearly determined upon, as a fact of which Sheriff CAMPBELL, at least, is well assured.

National Sabbath Convention.

OFFICE OF THE BUSINESS COMMITTEE, No. 5 BEEKMAN HOUSE, New-York, July 8, 1863.

The friends of the Christian Sabbath are hereby invited to meet at St. Nicholas Hall, Saratoga Springs, on Tuesday, the 18th day of August next, at 11 o'clock A. M., to deliberate on the relations and claims of our institution vital to the civil and religious welfare of the nation, and on the means of promoting its due observance throughout the land.

An introductory discourse will be delivered on the Sunday evening preceding the Convention (the 9th inst.) by Right Rev. C. P. MCILVAINE, of Ohio. Subject—"The Sabbath as a Religious Institution."

The following Christian scholars have kindly consented to present papers on the topics indicated, as the basis of discussion in the deliberative meetings, viz.:

Rev. PHILIP SCHAFF, D. D., of Mercersburgh Theological Seminary, on "The American Sabbath—Its Characteristics and History."

WILLARD PARKER, M. D., Professor in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New-York, on "Sabbath Physiology."

Rev. HENRY B. SMITH, D. D., Professor in Union Theological Seminary, on the "Philosophy of the Sabbath."

Rev. WM. B. WILLIAMS, D. D., of New-York, on "The Connection of the Sabbath with Public Morals."

Rev. MARK HOPKINS, D. D., President of Williams Col-

operation of the 6th [illegible] from MARGARETTA FOOTE, and spelled their name without a terminating e. My father resented the termination e, but Mrs. FOOTE did not.

Some time previous to the death of Mrs. FOOTE, and while we were engaging the genealogical work which was shortly after published by Mr. GOODWIN, I laid before him the evidence I had obtained relative to the spelling of the name by our ancestors, and on investigating the evidence he admitted its validity and the propriety of correcting the spelling, but he, with some other public men of our name, advanced in life, among whom were Hon. SOLOMON FOOTE, United States Senator from Vermont, and Hon. SAMUEL A. FOOTE, former Judge of your Supreme Court, chose to retain the spelling so long used by them, while their descendants, and nearly all others of the name, I believe, have generally accepted the original orthography, in consequence of the Admiral in and the terminating e in spelling his name, but a desire to correct the spelling in accordance with that of his original ancestors in this country. The FOOTE family have now generally adopted the same method, simply because it is the correct one, or are they aware of any good reason why they should abandon the spelling of their original ancestor for the sake of spelling their name as some of their inferior extremities or twelve inches.

Rear-Admiral FOOTE was too pure and high-minded, too honorable and brave, to do any act worthy of being called conscious, as all will justly who knew him personally.

Very respectfully, your most obedient,

E. T. FOOTE.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Saturday, July 4, 1863.

FROM NASSAU.

Movements of Capt. Semmes—How he Transferred his Flag to the Georgia—Advices from St. Thomas—Movements of Blockade-runners, &c.

We have received Nassau papers as late as July 4, from which we derive the following intelligence:

FROM ST. THOMAS.

From the Nassau Guardian, July 4.

St. Thomas advices, of the 6th ult., state that several Federal vessels of war were then in that port, composing the squadron of Admiral WILKES, who evidently intended making St. Thomas the centre of operations in the West Indies. Rumoures of the fact that St. Thomas was in possession of the Danish Crown, the Massachusetts was, to all intents and purposes, one guard-ship, and vessels at St. Thomas replacing crewing of the other vessels, always having steam up, in readiness to overhaul any vessel leaving the harbor, and otherwise conveying the swinging leaving port.

The Gemsbok had been dismantled, and made a stationary coal hulk. Four vessels with coal were there from the States, supplying the fleet, and other orders were to follow. Much discontent prevailed on the subject, and the Colonial Government was much embarrassed by the extraordinary acts of Admiral WILKES. It was expected that the Danish Government would immediately remonstrate with the Federal Government against the aggressions of their officer.

CAPT. SEMMES.

From the Nassau Guardian, June 27.

From a private letter received on Monday, we learn that Capt. SEMMES, of the Alabama, arrived at St. Thomas on the 26th ult., landed

[illegible] Massachusetts, on "The Relations of the Sabbath to Public Prosperity."

The gentlemen of this Committee, with the distinguished authors, and the present issuer of letters on the subject from highly esteemed quarters, cannot be invoked on the understanding, the calling of this Convention, and the publishing of such preliminary arrangements on eight hours' notice, unofficial. It will meet at a period of supreme moment in the national history. Our institutions submitted to the terrible arbitrament of war, are to be tightened again to the, perhaps, severer ordeal of union and prosperity. In other words, and in the period of transition, our home as a self-governing people, under God, might shine in such institutions as could a divine Rib. and government, by those very uniform and inflexible, the indescribable elements of regulated freedom. The only existing free governments are those where the Sabbath is hallowed. Certain it is that "the American character and every distinctive institution will go down into the same grave that entombs the Sabbath."

In the confidence that the proposed Convention will contribute to the preservation and safest observance of our National Sabbath, and thus to the purity and perpetuity of our free institutions, and the advancement of our Redeemer's Kingdom, we would commit its issues to "the Lord of the Sabbath" and the God of nations.

Departure of the Tenth Regiment.

The Tenth regiment, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Mizner, will leave this City for Baltimore to-day. The regiment is ordered to assemble at the Arsenal, corner of White-street, at 2 o'clock P. M. It has now 500 men fully uniformed and equipped, and is ready to receive new enlistments to-day before their departure. Such as wish to join a Militia regiment and thus avoid the draft have left a last chance afforded them. The Tenth go out for three months service.

Naval Movements.

NEW VESSELS DISPATCHED AFTER THE PRIVATEERS.

Orders were received from Washington yesterday, directing Admiral Farragut to dispatch to sea at once such vessels, of proper tonnage, as were at his disposal. In a few hours the corvette Marion, with Midshipmen on board, and the yacht America, were sent off, fully manned and equipped. Two or three regular navy-built steamers are preparing rapidly to follow them, and before a week five or six vessels will be on the ocean.

CHIEF ENGINEER HIRED.

This valuable officer, whose name was mentioned in connection with the appointment of Chief of the Bureau of Engineering, has taken his position as Superintendent of the Iron-clads in the West. We are authorized to correct the statement that he was offered to assume the duties of the Bureau. Mr. Kirk had been for some months managing the Government foundry at Pittsburgh, and was presented with a valuable testimonial when leaving that city.

Court of General Sessions.

Before Judge McCunn.

In this Court, yesterday, William Stangford, 22 years of age, formerly a member of the First New-York Fire Zouaves, was tried and convicted of grand larceny, in stealing a watch and chain, valued at $160, from John D. Lovejoy, in the Bowery, on the night of the 29th of June. The prisoner was sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

Francis Green, a workman, aged 28, was convicted of grand larceny, in stealing a box valued at $25, from James Green, of Pier No. 20 North River. Sentenced to two years in the State Prison.

Wm. Hardy pleaded guilty to opening a sealed letter, containing money, directed to the firm of S. C. Richards & Co., in whom employ he was at the time. Sentence to-day.

Margaret Byrne pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was sent to the Penitentiary for six months.

Mary McIntyre pleaded guilty to petit larceny, and was remanded for sentence.

James McGuire, aged 20, a deserter from the Brady Light Infantry, pleaded guilty to burglary in the second degree, in breaking into the house of Philemon Jumeau, No. 232 Avenue B, and stealing therefrom clothing to the value of $95. The prisoner was sentenced to five years in the State Prison.

William Wearet pleaded guilty to an assault upon Angelina Treadwell with a knife, inflicting a severe wound in her hand. Sentence to-day.

Patrick Murray, jointly indicted with James Clark for grand larceny, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for two years.

The Court adjourned to 11 o'clock this morning.

Habeas Corpus Cases to be Brought Before United States Judges.

Provost-Marshal Nugent has received instructions from Washington not to make returns hereafter to writs of habeas corpus issued by State Judges, further than to state in a respectful manner that such writs must be obtained from Judges of the United States Courts, when the United States is a party to the proceeding. This order will relieve Judge McCunn of a large amount of unpleasant business.

The Remains of Gen. Zook.

The remains of the late Brig.-Gen. Samuel K. Zook, U. S. V., arrived here yesterday at 3 P. M., from Valley Forge, Pa., in charge of Major E. H. Ward, of Maj.-Gen. Sickles's Staff, and Lieut. Josiah M. Travilla and Charles H. H. Remen, of his staff. The remains are accompanied by the father and brothers of the deceased.

The body will lie in state at the Governor's Room, City Hall, pending arrangements for the funeral by the Committee on National Affairs of this City.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

FATAL STABBING AFFRAY.—About 12 o'clock on Thursday night, a young man named Edward Calloran, residing at No. 242 West Seventeenth-street, entered the drinking saloon of Thos. Linn, on the corner of Baxter and Park streets, and commenced to beat a woman, striking her several times on the head and breast. The barkeeper of the place remonstrated with him in regard to his conduct, whereupon Calloran tried to fight with all present. He soon got into a quarrel with a man whose name is unknown, during which the latter stabbed Calloran in the region of the heart, inflicting dangerous wounds. The stranger immediately fled, and has not been arrested. The injured man was taken to the New-York Hospital by Officer Hyde. His physicians say that he cannot recover.

TWO NEWLY BORN INFANTS FOUND IN THE WATER.—Mr. R. Curran, of Whitehall, found in the slip adjoining the South Ferry, yesterday morning, a brown paper parcel, which on opening was found to contain the bodies of two newly born infants. They were well covered with chloride of lime, and had been in the water but a few moments, as the paper was not yet wet through; probably dropped from the entry at the Hamilton-avenue Ferry-house. In the bundle, as weight to sink the bundle, was the brass beam of a pair of small scales, an old lock, a lancet, and some small pieces of iron.

A WOMAN THROWN OUT OF THE SECOND STORY WINDOW BY HER HUSBAND.—At a late hour on Thursday night, Officer Mulry, of the Twentieth Precinct, found a woman, named Ann Gardner, lying in the street opposite No. 100 Tenth-avenue, where she was thrown by her husband, from the second story window of the above number. Gardner was arrested, and committed to await the result of his wife's injuries. The latter was conveyed to Bellevue Hospital, where, after an examination, the surgeons pronounced her case hopeless. No bones were broken by the fall, but her internal injuries are very severe.

FORGING A DISCHARGE CERTIFICATE FOR A SOLDIER.—The examination of Henry Greene, for forging a discharge certificate for a soldier named Lemuel Bowerman—certifying that he was discharged for wounds, whereas it was for physical disability and not entitled to pension—was concluded before U. S. Commissioner Osborne, yesterday, by the committal of Greene for trial, the soldier being detained as a witness.

PREACHING AT THE N. E. ROOMS.—Rev. Henry Kendall will preach to the sick and wounded soldiers at the New-England Relief Association's Rooms, No. 196 Broadway, to-morrow afternoon, at 3½ o'clock.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

THE SEVENTIETH REGIMENT TO GARRISON FORT HAMILTON.—Orders were received yesterday directing five companies of the Seventieth regiment artillery to prepare to march at an hour's notice. The Colonel detained the regiment to meet of the second at 10 o'clock A. M., in full uniform and dismounted, with the view of embarking the companies with the Colonel ranks. Capt. Thomas McCarty, of Company C, reported 120 men, and Capt. Jesse Thomas 100 men ready for duty. These companies left for Fort Hamilton at noon, under the command of Maj. Hamer ordered to march under arms. Their destination is either Fort Hamilton or some of the fortifications on the Staten Island side of the Narrows. As artillery company from Rochester, N. Y., was some time since ordered to garrison Fort Hamilton, and if they arrive soon will probably be assigned to that position. If not, the Seventieth will be sent there and the Rochester company to Staten Island. The following are the officers of the Seventieth regiment so far as selected: Colonel, Wm. J. Cheney; Lieutenant-Colonel, Francis C. Grantier; Major, Robert Smith; Adjutant, John McLean; Quartermaster, Robert Sullivan.

Co. A—Capt. Keyser, and Lieut. Bettermann; Co. B—Capt. John Timmen, Lieuts. Singer, Weckerman and Schmeidmacher; Co. C—Capt. Thomas McCarty, Lieuts. Peter Farrell, Michael G. Coleman and Robt. Ellwood; Co. D—Capt. Anthony Walter, Lieuts. Sebasch, John Wills and John Honinger; Co. E—Capt. Richard J. Barry, Lieuts. G. S. Cornehovea, and John Brague; Co. F—Lieut. White commanding, and Lieuts. Morris and Sorenny; Co. G—Capt. Snyder, Lieuts. Dillinger, Charles A. Ullman and Frederick Keidler; Co. H—Capt. Joseph F. Miller, Lieuts. Hasfield and Owens.

CONVICTION FOR ASSAULT ON A POLICE OFFICER.—Richard Tompkins was placed on trial in the Kings County Court of Sessions, yesterday, on the charge of assaulting officer Riess, of the Forty-first Precinct police, with a deadly weapon. It appears that in May last the prisoner attacked a man named Sherman, in Carll-street, and beat him severely. A crowd of almost one hundred persons had gathered around. The officer was called upon to arrest the parties. He took hold of Sherman, and ascertaining that Tompkins was the assailant, took hold of him. He broke loose and ran into the house opposite, where he lived. The officer followed him into his room, and, with the assistance of two other officers, brought him out. He tore himself away, and back into the house, followed by Riess, and taking a bayonet-pointed gun from a wall, fired the alarm with which it was loaded entering the wall. The officer was somewhat injured, but not seriously, the charge having just grazed his shoulder. The prisoner was convicted and sentenced to the State Prison for three years.

NEW-JERSEY.

SUPPOSED MURDER AT THE ELYSIAN FIELDS.—The body of an unknown man was found on the beach opposite the Elysian Fields yesterday forenoon, and was taken in charge by Coroner F. W. Bonnesen. Upon examination the Coroner found very severe cuts or wounds on the temple, and on the back of the head, which appeared to have been inflicted with some sharp instrument. Deceased is about 5 feet 6 inches in height, dark hair, high forehead. When found the deceased was dressed in a shirt, on which had on a coarse white linen shirt, with the initials "J. S." marked with red ink; a black and white checked vest, with suspenders tied together to his back, as though some weight had been tied to the same. The body appears not to have been in the water over twenty-four hours. The body was taken to F. N. Carr's, undertaker, No. 120 Washington-street, for identification, and the inquest will be commenced to-day.

STRIKING AFFRAY.—Between 10 and 11 o'clock on Thursday night, as two gentlemen and a lady were passing through Pavonia-avenue, Jersey City, to the Erie Railroad Depot, a young man considerably intoxicated, named James Connelly, residing in New-York, accosted and grossly insulted the lady. The ruffian was assaulted in return, when he drew a knife and stabbed one of the gentlemen, Mr. Boykin, of Hudson City, cutting a severe gash over his eye. Connelly was arrested and yesterday Recorder Mastermann committed him to the county jail for trial.

FIRE.—On Wednesday night a fire occurred in the building corner of Wayne and Greene streets, Jersey City, occupied by Hutton & Lacy, Cunnamera & Co., and others. The inside of the building, together with the contents, were nearly all destroyed. The building was damaged insured for $1,000 on Messrs. Hutton & Lacy were insured for $1,000 in the St. Mark's and the New-Amsterdam Companies. Messrs. Cunnamera & Co., planing mill, were insured for $2,000 in St. Mark's, Brevoort, Harmony and Mutual, of Newark, which will cover their loss.

ARRIVAL OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS.—Yesterday morning a special train of cars, containing about seven hundred wounded soldiers from the late battles at Gettysburgh, arrived at Newark, and were quartered at the Government Hospitals.

NEARLY COMPLETED.—The Ericsson batteries Mahopac, Tecumseh and Manhatta, in course of construction at Secor & Co.'s yard, in Jersey City, are nearly completed, and will be ready for launching in about two weeks.

LAW REPORTS.

Opinion on a Question of Currency.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.

Before Justices Sutherland, Leonard and Curtis.

Hurlbut vs. Carter et al.—By the Court: Curtis, J.—When this case was before the General Term on a former occasion, the Justice, who delivered the opinion of the Court, observed that "it would hardly be consistent with a fair interpretation of this contract that the defendants might receive bills of banks on deposit at the time worth quite or nearly par, and after using the same be allowed to repay the amount in the same kind of money, even if it had become since the deposit worthless."

At the trial, evidence of a custom at Chicago was received, tending to show when deposits were made in the manner specified in the contract, that repayment should be made in notes of the same character; that is, in notes of Illinois Banks, but current for the ordinary transactions of business in the State of Illinois, at their nominal or par value. It was also proved that any bills of Illinois Banks not depreciated more than five per cent., would, on the 11th June, 1862, when the certificate was presented for payment at the banking houses of the defendants, have been received in payment, as ordinary currency in the State in the ordinary transactions of business at par.

On the first perusal of the certificate in question, I was inclined to the opinion that the defendants were liable to pay in specie. The description of the paper specified in the certificate appearing to me to relate only to the bills received, and not to the manner in which repayment should be made. Certainly it would be a hard construction of the contract to infer from it that the parties intended, although the bills were current at the time they were received, that the defendants, after using them, should be allowed to repay the amount in the same kind of money after it had become depreciated. This would be a fair construction if the deposit was a special one, merely for safe-keeping, when the same identical bills should be returned; but where, as in the usual dealings between banks and their depositors, the former use the money of the latter, nothing would be more unjust than that the banks, after applying the money when it was current to their own business purposes, should be allowed, after it became uncurrent and depreciated, to apply bills of the same kind which they may have on hand, or which they may pick up among the brokers, to the repayment of the amount deposited.

If the plaintiffs are not entitled to specie, they were at least entitled to payment in Illinois currency, receivable in the ordinary transactions of business at par.

Judgment should be affirmed, with costs.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our special dispatch from Washington states, on the authority of an officer just arrived from the army, that the rebels were yesterday occupying the old Antietam battle-ground, and that a battle there was imminent. Our forces were reported in possession of Williamsport, and holding both banks of the river, which was very high, and likely to continue so for several days.

Gen. NAGLEE, in command of a portion of Gen. FOSTER's troops, has reported to Gen. MEADE, and has been assigned to a command at Harper's Ferry.

The Medical Inspector at Gettysburgh telegraphed to Washington yesterday that the number of rebel wounded thus far known to be in our hands was over ten thousand, exclusive of those captured by our cavalry.

The Richmond papers of the 8th inst., which have been received, contain dispatches regarding the battles at Gettysburgh from Martinsburgh, Va., dated the 6th. They claim a great victory for Gen. LEE, with the capture of 40,000 "Yankee" prisoners. According to these dispatches the heaviest fighting was done on Saturday and Sunday—on which days there was no fighting whatever between the main armies, LEE's efforts being entirely directed to an escape with the remnants of his defeated army. The Richmond Enquirer, however, acknowledges a loss of ten thousand, with a number of General officers, and says that on the 7th, between three and four thousand wounded arrived at Winchester. If this be correct, the rebel losses must be even larger than our most liberal estimates. Up to the 8th inst., the people in Richmond appear to have had no knowledge of the fall of Vicksburgh. The papers continued their boasts that the garrison would be able to hold out, and that Joe JOHNSTON would soon make GRANT feel his presence.

The Vicksburgh garrison, it said, to have comprised 30,000 men. Among the officers captured are one Lieutenant-General, four Major-Generals, and between fifteen and twenty Brigadier-Generals.

The manner in which the news of the surrender of Vicksburgh reached Cairo so quickly is at last explained. Immediately after the surrender had been concluded—at half-past 9 A. M. on Saturday—Admiral PORTER dispatched the steamer V. F. Wilson, a very fast boat, with bearers of dispatches from himself and from Gen. GRANT. The latter was put ashore at Memphis, whence he expected to telegraph, but the line happened to be temporarily disabled, and Admiral PORTER's messenger, who proceeded with the Wilson directly to Cairo, thus anticipated Gen. GRANT's dispatch bearer. Dispatches to the Chicago papers state that, on July 1, Gen. LOGAN fired another mine under Port Hill, and blew up one side of the work, so as to leave the entire force open to the fire of our artillery. The explosion threw four dead rebels and one live negro into our trenches. The rebel Gen. MAUD GREEN is said to have been killed when the first mine was exploded. It is also stated that 24,000 prisoners and 100 siege guns were surrendered by Gen. PEMBERTON. Col. R. KENNY SMITH left Vicksburgh for Port Hudson on July 1, with dispatches for Gen. BANKS.

Gen. MEADE announced the fall of Vicksburgh to his army as follows:

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, July 7, 1863.

It is with much satisfaction that the Major-General Commanding announces to the army under his command that he has received official intelligence that Vicksburgh was surrendered by the enemy to Gen. GRANT on the 4th instant.

By command of Maj.-Gen. MEADE.

S. V. BENÉT, Assistant Adjutant-General.

Gen. BURNSIDE issued the following order upon receipt of the news of the surrender of Vicksburgh:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE OHIO, CINCINNATI, OHIO, July 7, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDERS No. 205.—In honor of the capture of the City of Vicksburgh, after a siege almost unparalleled in history, the Commanding General directs that, as a slight appreciation of the event, one hundred (100) guns be fired this afternoon, on each of the levees of Cincinnati and Newport, Ky. By order of Maj.-Gen. BURNSIDE.

R. N. L. GOODARD, Acting Assistant Adjutant-General.

By the steamship George Washington, which arrived at this port yesterday, we receive our Port Hudson correspondence to the 24 inst., and our New-Orleans correspondence to the 4th. The third assault on Port Hudson had not yet taken place, but was expected immediately. Meantime there had been several sharp encounters along the lines, which were very close together—so near that missiles could be thrown over the works by hand. The rebel cavalry were hovering on Gen. BANKS' rear, but no very serious demonstration was expected in that direction. The guerrillas, however, had succeeded in capturing Gen. NEAL DOW and his staff—they being at the time at a house outside our lines. Donaldsonville, after the rebel attack and repulse, an account of which was received by the last previous arrival was evacuated by our forces and the place destroyed. The guerrillas were very troublesome on the river, between Baton Rouge and New-Orleans, and had compelled the return to the latter place of several steamers with supplies. Considerable excitement existed in New-Orleans in apprehension of a real attack, but active measures were being taken to strengthen the defences.

The Captain of a schooner, which arrived at Boston, yesterday, brought a report that a rebel bark-rigged steamer, of six hundred tons burden, was cruising in the Seal Islands sinking ground provisions to the 27th ult. A large ship, loaded with fish, reported at Kennebunk, Me., was said to have been burnt by her.

The Delaware Expedition states that there are now several thousand citizens in Fort Delaware, their number having been greatly increased within the present week. The rebels suffer immensely, many of them being sick. On Thursday last, 97 men died and were buried. Interment, having been conveyed to the adjacent shore of New-Jersey for that purpose. By the great addition thus made to the number of prisoners, the mortality will be proportionately increased.

The Wheeling Intelligencer states that on Thursday, July 2, a force of rebels under General WM. JACKSON attacked our troops at Beverly. The Tenth Virginia, under Col. HARRIS, had forty rebels captured and his regiment shower-ed with shot. The Fourteenth Pennsylvania cavalry, Col. SCHOONMAKER, of the Gen. KILPATRICK's brigade, was ordered to make a forced march from Philippi. They drove the enemy back to Elk Water, a distance of forty miles, kept up a running fight, destroyed two of the enemy's guns, and recaptured the pickets, with important rebel mail matter.

The Richmond Dispatch of the 7th inst. announces that in the Libby Prison, on the previous day, the Captains among the National prisoners drew lots for two of their number to be shot in retaliation for the shooting of the rebel Capts. COBURN and MCGRAW, by Gen. BURNSIDE, at Sandusky, Ohio, on the 15th of last May. The lots fell upon Capt. HENRY WASHINGTON SAWYER, of the First New-Jersey cavalry, and Capt. JOHN FLINN, of the Fifty-first Indiana Volunteers.

The Nassau Guardian of July 4 repeats the story of an engagement between the Vanderbilt and Alabama, in which the former was sunk. We have already had this rumor and its contradiction from Havana.

The Toronto Leader illustrates English feeling in an editorial upon the recent rebel reverse in Pennsylvania, which closes thus: "There is not the least ground for despondency. To concentrate its forces will but strengthen the South, and if its recent reverses but tend to this end, there will not be much cause for regret."

GENERAL NEWS.

Advices from the City of Mexico to the 10th ult., received by way of Acapulco and San Francisco, are of no particular importance. JUAREZ arrived in San Luis Potosi on the 7th, and established the seat of Government there, while the late garrison of the city, numbering some 12,000, were distributed at points west. It was believed that FOREY had sent a communication to JUAREZ, urging him to accept terms of peace. We also have some details of recent events in Mexico by way of Havana, but nothing later.

From Venezuela, we learn by Caracas papers to the 8th ult., that the war is by no means over. Insurrections had broken out in Valencia, Puerto Cabello and Laguayra. In the latter place a Col. OLIVO had destroyed the Government war materials, taken the ammunition, &c., seized the Custom-house, and, with quite a large faction, had declared for Gen. GONZENO. The pronunciamientos of Valencia and Puerto Cabello are to the same effect, viz.: Opposition to the treaty of peace celebration at Coche, between PAEZ and FALCON, and demanding a continuance of the war. The commander and crew of two of the steamers-of-war have declared for the insurrectionists.

In the matter of Kings County against Col. BURER, wherein an attachment for contempt was issued, the case stands thus: the Sheriff returns that he is unable to obtain admission to the fort, and that a large force of troops and of artillery would be necessary to enforce the writ. This force Kings County does not possess, and the matter has been referred to Gov. SEYMOUR.

Messrs. HAYES, agents in Boston of the Cunard steamships, state that all their vessels leaving that port during the Summer months will call off Cape Race when the weather permits, and will take any news or dispatches that may be telegraphed to that point. They are usually due off Cape Race during Saturday night, after their departure from Boston.

The price of Gold Coin and Bills on London advanced 1 ⅛ cent, yesterday; Gold 132¼; Exchange 145½@146 ⅛ cent. Stocks firm. Money easy.

Breadstuffs were in good request yesterday at firmer prices. The main business in Provisions was transacted in Pork, which was dearer. Cotton was in demand at advanced rates. Groceries, Hides, Leather, Skins, Fruit, Hemp, Hops, Metals, Seeds and Tobacco were generally inactive. Tallow was in moderate request. Whisky was heavy and drooping. The auction sale of Boots and Shoes passed off rather spiritedly. The Dry Goods trade was depressed and quite unsettled. The Freight engagements were limited.

The War and the Conscription.

We hope neither the Government nor the country will forget that even if LEE is again defeated on the Potomac, it is not at all probable that the rebellion will be completely suppressed in another fortnight. At the very best, it is all but certain that a large portion of the rebel army will escape into Virginia, but if by is ever so great disorder and disorganization; and once there, we should make a great mistake in supposing that all that skill, industry, and energy can do, will not be done by the leaders to gather up and reunite the fragments for another struggle. Fresh men will be forced into the field, worse men, perhaps, than those with whom we are now contending—younger and older, fiercer, but still brave men, well officered, and subject to an iron discipline; and if it is not possible to organize them in Eastern Virginia, they will be organized in the mountains or in the Cotton States. We should be strangely and inexcusably blind if we rushed to the conclusion that the dispersal of even two of their best armies will drive the leaders of the insurrection into immediate submission. They will hold out as long as they can keep even ten thousand men together, in the hope that time may do for them what skill and valor have failed to do, and that something or other may "turn up," to restore their fortunes before the last sparks of resistance are trampled out; and even after they have lost all hope, they will hold out for honor's sake. They are not, as they have already abundantly proved, easily moved from their purpose by considerations of humanity, and if the protraction of hostilities for three months or half a year longer, would enable them, even at the cost of thirty or forty thousand lives, to make their appearance in Paris and London, with a little more éclat, we may be perfectly certain they will not deny themselves this source of distinction.

Consequently common prudence, we will not say common sense, requires that we should make all our arrangements to keep our army up to its full strength, and on a war footing, for another year at least, let our successes in the conflicts now impending be ever so brilliant, and putting out of sight the strong probability that the tremendous social convulsion through which the South is passing will render the presence of troops necessary in most of the Slave States long after armed opposition to the Government is at an end.

It must not be forgotten, however, that after another battle or two, a very large and portion of the troops of the Army of the Potomac will consist of militia, half of whose thirty days' term of service is already expired. We shall of course derive a large reinforcement from six months' men, but not nearly large enough to fill up the gaps which already have been made in the ranks of the gallant three years' men to whose skill and experience, as well as to whose courage, we so largely owe our safety to-day. So that the necessity of raising men by the Conscription Act, as regards any other way, is in no way diminished, but rather increased by our recent successes. Unless they are well and vigorously followed up, without pause or intermission, the torrents of blood by which they have been purchased will have been shed in vain. It has been too much the fashion, both of the Administration and the country, to suppose after each victory, that the contest was over, and to spend the time in rejoicing, and boasting, and prophesying, which the enemy was using vigorously to repair his losses and reorganize his forces. We must have no more of this. We must act in the arms of victory, as if we were on the edge of defeat. Our enemy has given proof in abundance, above all things, of elasticity and recuperative energy, so that our salvation lies in giving him no breathing-time. The victory at Gettysburgh might therefore be considered as mainly valuable in affording the Government more time for the enforcement of the draft and the vigorous organization of the Veteran Corps. There ought to be 100,000 men under arms at this moment, by virtue of the conscription; there are not ten. But if the return of the thirty days' volunteers leaves the War Department once more so feeble that it will either have to pause in its offensive operations, or leave MEADE to be overwhelmed by superior forces, owing to its failure to use the power which Congress has placed in its hands, it will deserve the worst penalty which an enraged and betrayed country can inflict. Let us have the draft at all hazards, at once. We want the men, and we want to know who they are that will raise a finger in opposition to it. They have contented themselves so far with vague threats of something dreadful in case an attempt is made to put the law in force. But we think we only express the feelings of nineteen-twentieths of the community, when we say that next to the defeat of LEE, there is nothing more desirable than that his partisans at the North should give us an opportunity of singling them out and laying hands on them, without the possibility of mistake or injustice.

Our Dear British Cousins Getting Nervous.

We published in our issue of Wednesday the memorial of a large number of the leading shipping merchants of Liverpool to Earl RUSSELL, urging upon him the necessity of pressing upon Parliament amendments to the Neutrality law that shall make it more effective against the building and fitting out of Confederate cruisers in British ports. The main argument of the memorial is that the precedent thus far set will operate disastrously upon the commercial interests of England in her future wars.

We hope our Liverpool brethren will keep cool about this matter. They have managed to remain perfectly so for two years, and it would be a great pity were they to work themselves into a fever just as our difficulties were coming to an end. And "Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Foreign Department"—we trust that he will give himself no trouble. Care hurts digestion, and now, just before dessert, it is hardly worth while to begin it. Besides, "My Lord PALMERSTON" has already settled the matter. It was only on last April Fool's Day, or thereabouts, that this man of great parts declared from his seat in Parliament that the Ministry "has done everything with respect to the Foreign Enlistment Act, which the law enabled and authorized us to do," and wound up with this nice little sentence—"The people and the Government of the United States must not imagine that the cry raised will induce us to come down to this House to alter the law." Of course, if the Ministry could not be induced then, it would hardly be respectful to try to "induce" them now. To be sure, affairs ever here have taken a little turn since, but then that cannot effect the principle of the thing. If it was right to build ships in April, of course it cannot be wrong to build them in July. The fact that we were down then and up now, must not make any difference; and we wonder the Liverpool men don't see it. It is very curious that they should begin to worry just as we are ceasing to worry. They must try to keep up their spirits, for we are going to have a dance bye-and-bye.

Let us consider for a moment. How stands the matter?

From the early stage of the rebellion ships-of-war have been built and fitted out in English ports for the express and notorious purpose of depredating upon the commerce of the United States, under the flag of the rebels. The extent of the damage thus done, direct and indirect, at the very lowest estimate, exceeds one hundred millions of dollars. The Government of the United States has remonstrated against this British supply of hostile vessels, as a breach of neutrality obligations. The reply of the British Government has been that, under the present neutrality law of England, they had no power to prevent the furnishing of ships, and that they would not move for an amendment of the law so as to obtain that power. So much for the conduct of the British Government.

What was the conduct of the American Government under similar circumstances? In 1837, England was at war with Canadian rebels. Our Neutrality act at that time was almost identical in language with the present Neutrality act of England. It was found insufficient to prevent breaches of neutrality, though it could punish amply after their commission. On the recommendation of President VAN BUREN, by special message, Congress amended the act, so as to give the Executive the power to prevent by timely and effective action. This extraordinary power was continued to the end of the rebellion, and contributed vastly to the maintenance of our neutrality in substance as well as in form. The simple difference then between the United States and England, under the same circumstances, in the capacity of neutral, is—that the one carried out neutral obligations completely and in good faith, and that the other, by its own willful default, has permitted them to be evaded and reduced to a nullity.

Well, what is to come of it? Which precedent is to stand, the American or the English? There can hardly be doubt. Obligations between nations are in their very nature reciprocal; and inasmuch as England has not seen fit to reciprocate toward the United States the same strictness of neutrality which the latter had extended toward her, the United States must henceforth, in its English relations, adopt the English standard. In other words, when England is hereafter engaged in war, her enemy must have full license to build or buy and to fit out vessels for his use in New-York or Boston, or San Francisco, or any other American port. The license need not be formal. We have simply to put the same construction upon our Neutrality act of 1818 that the British Government has done upon its own act, couched in the same phrase. In the long run we shall have no reason to complain. England is far more exposed to war than the United States, and ever must remain so. In fact, she will hardly get over the next five years without another struggle with Russia. In her last conflict with that Power the latter experienced a prodigious disadvantage in her inability to operate at all on the high seas. In conformity with what we then regarded as our true neutral obligations, we interfered, on the application of the British Consul, to prevent ships from being made over to the Russian service. Hereafter no such application can be countenanced. Russia may consider herself at perfect liberty to purchase and fit out in New-York the very swiftest and best vessels we have, and commission them for her navy, to operate against British commerce to the "top of their bent." With a little management, the letter of the law, as interpreted by the highest British authorities, can be very easily satisfied. This will furnish abundant employment for our skillful shipwrights, will throw the carrying trade very comfortably into American bottoms, and will inflict protracted injury upon our only commercial rival, besides giving us the chance to repay the faithfulness of a very good friend over the water, who stood by us in our day of need.

We have long since learned the lesson of OXENSTERN to his departing son—"Go forth, my son, and see with what little wisdom the world is governed." The blunders and folly of British statesmanship, so called, it needs no KINGLAKE to unfold to us. But in this instance, PALMERSTON and RUSSELL have really thought they were playing a very sharp game; and all the more so, because they found millions of Englishmen to back them up in it. They started with the assumption that our rebellion would in all likelihood succeed, and that the United States was no longer a Power to be feared or cared for. They have done what they well could to further the success of the Confederacy—perceiving that their interests, in spite of Slavery, lay in that direction, and believing that, by reason of our mutilated condition, they could do this with impunity. Well, there might have been something in this, provided there were no mistake about the success of the rebellion. But, unfortunately for them, there was a little mistake just there. They committed the common error of weak men, of letting their wishes govern their understanding. They are getting a glimmering of this already. But it is quite too late to mend matters. To shuffle over to a new position after the news from Vicksburg and Gettysburg, would simply be to make themselves the laughing-stock of the world. The best they can do is to keep quiet; and the worst we can wish them is, that they may live to see the sequel.

The Draft—Its Operations and Exemptions.

The Conscription now about to take place for 300,000 men, to serve for three years or during the war, naturally absorbs all other interests for the time being. It is a measure that, in a peculiar manner, comes home to "the business and bosoms" of every family wherein there is an arms-bearing member. The volunteer system long since exhausted the spontaneously patriotic and warlike spirit of the community. When volunteering for the love of the cause came to an end, the bounty system was brought into requisition, and money considerations induced tens of thousands to enlist who otherwise would not have done so. But the charge on national and municipal credit, of keeping up a vast army by bounties, was too great to be long borne. The Government has at last resorted to the means that all great military nations employ to raise and sustain armies; and it is the only means that in the long run can be relied on. The plan is that of general, impartial Conscription.

It is equally the duty of all who are capable of military duty to serve their country at a time like this. But as the services of all are not required, nothing is fairer than to determine, by lot, who among those that are able to take the field shall be called out. It is this that the Conscription proposes to do. Instead of the Conscription being a hardship, ungenerously imposed by the Government upon the people, it is really an arrangement of reverse character, by which the Government remits to a majority of its citizens a duty which it might rightfully call on all to discharge—and remits, according to a plan that the minority who have to serve cannot complain of as unfair, for all run an equal risk in the Conscription.

The lot in the impending draft will fall precisely as the chips fall, but it will reach the predetermined number of citizens as unerringly as fate; and hopes all the duties and responsibilities of the Conscription law upon the drafted. The subsequent steps will be as follows: Each drafted person will be notified, within ten days after being drawn, of the fact, requiring him to appear at the designated rendezvous to report for duty. On arrival at the rendezvous, the drafted persons are to be carefully inspected by the Surgeon of the Enrolling Board, and if found to be physically disqualified, they will be there exempted. Any person drafted, who, on or before the day fixed for his appearance, furnish an acceptable substitute to take his place, or he may pay to the Collector of Internal Revenue for his district the sum of $300, and thereby be exempt from any further liability under that draft. Any person failing to report himself within the time prescribed, furnish a substitute, or pay the $300, shall be deemed a deserter, and be arrested and tried as such, unless, upon proper showing that he is not liable to do military duty, the Board of Enrollment shall relieve him from the draft.

The persons enrolled under the act are divided into two classes. The first class consists of all persons subject to military duty between the ages of twenty and thirty-five, and all unmarried persons subject to military duty between the ages of thirty-five and forty-five. The second class consists of all other persons subject to military duty. The second class shall not in any district be called into service until those of the first class shall have been called.

The difference between married men and single men, under the law, is simply this—that all unmarried men between the ages of 20 and 45, and all married men between the ages of 20 and 35, belong to the first class. All married men between the ages of 35 and 45, belong to the second class.

The prospect is that the draft will be manfully met and responded to. And in this gratifying circumstance we do not fail to see the happy effect of the late important victories of the Union cause. These triumphs have acted as a decided tonic to the national courage, and at the same time imparted a much needed confidence in the trustworthiness of the Government and the capacity of our military leaders.

The French in Mexico—Development of their Designs.

The advices from Mexico, this morning, are no later than those previously received, but they contain some additional facts of interest and importance.

The schemes of LOUIS NAPOLEON are rapidly developing. The declarations always prefixed to his Mexican letters and official documents that conquest is not his purpose, and that he does not intend to impose any government on the Mexicans in opposition to the popular will, are transparent shams, and insulting to the common intelligence of mankind. The most ordinary mind that has given the subject any attention, must have understood from the first that this French invasion of Mexico meant the conquest of the country in the broadest sense, to be followed by a government thoroughly despotic in its nature, and consequently most intensely hated by the people at large.

NAPOLEON sends an army of 40,000 men, with all its war material, to the shores of Mexico. He kidnaps several thousand negroes in Egypt and dispatches them to Vera Cruz to garrison that unhealthy locality. He marches his army into the interior, destroying with fire and sword. His army is checked at Puebla, but after a long and determined resistance, the place falls, and several hundreds of officers and some thousands of soldiers are captured. A portion of these are transported to France, a portion to the French colony of Martinique, where they are condemned to hard labor, and the remainder are held to forced service in their own country. The triumphant French army marches to the City of Mexico, which it enters without resistance, and one of the first acts of the conquerors is to promulgate a decree of sequestration, by which the property—real and personal—of all who oppose the French is to be sequestered. This document says:

"The present decree will be immediately published, printed and circulated throughout the country now subject to the intervention; it will also be done hereafter in all the States of the Republic, to be executed according to the form and time by the Prefects that may be appointed in them."

All this has the everlasting prefix that France does not think of conquest or of doing anything distasteful to the Mexican nation; at the same time, recent advices from Europe give the details of measures taken by NAPOLEON to capture the Mexican ports on the Pacific, and organize a collection system throughout the country which will cause its revenues to flow into the Treasury of France.

It is no longer necessary to waste words as to what the purposes of NAPOLEON in Mexico really are. We may deplore his success thus far on account of its gross injustice to Mexico and the misery it has already brought upon that country. But we have also to deplore the French conquest of the neighboring Republic in consideration of our own interests. The time is not far distant when no Copperhead or Secession journal in our midst will dare sustain the schemes of NAPOLEON in Mexico. The French Emperor has already gone so far in his Mexican projects that the permanent division of this Union is as essential to their ultimate success, to the upholding of his prestige and the stability of his throne even, as the maintenance of this Union is essential to the preservation of our prestige, stability, power and nationality. And if there is anything real in the American people and American institutions, if everything relating to our country and its supposed destiny is not mythical, then we are sure, sooner or later, to come into armed collision with any and every Power that aims to interfere, directly or indirectly, with the unity, stability, and supremacy of this Government.

We perceive signs of vitality in the Mexicans yet. The Government is located in San Luis Potosi, and all that region of the Republic is making every effort to maintain the contest. It is to be hoped that they will not yet give up the struggle.

GEN. MEADE'S POLITICS.—There has been considerable difficulty with some folks to find out Gen. MEADE's politics. In April last he responded to an invitation of the Loyal National League to attend the mass meeting in Union-square, and in his response he said that the main point in his politics was "the Government and our flag," and that his views were briefly and simply "that it is and should be the execrating and unhesitating duty of every citizen of the Republic to give his whole energies, and to contribute all the means in his power, to the determined prosecution of the war, until the integrity of the Government is reestablished and its supremacy acknowledged." This is an excellent and a complete political platform for the crisis.

GOVERNMENT AS SEEN IN RICHMOND.—We received yesterday a large batch of Richmond and other rebel newspapers, down as late as the 8th, or Wednesday last. They are filled with the most grotesque telegrams concerning the late battles. They claim, in the words of the Richmond Enquirer of Wednesday, that the entire Yankee army was "swept away, trampled under foot, and all but annihilated on its own soil," that 40,000 prisoners were captured by LEE, and the remnant of our army chased into Baltimore, out of which they would at once be chased. Washington, Philadelphia, and the whole North lay at their feet. "The whole breed of LINCOLN and his rascal Ministers turn pale, and their knees smite together as they hear from afar off the roar of their Grand Army rolled back in bloody rout and dismay, and see flashing through their guilty dreams the avenging bayonets of those they dared to call rebels." We have dispatch after dispatch (mostly from Martinsburgh) and column after column concerning LEE's tremendous victory, and MEADE's tremendous rout. Such systematic and direct lying has not heretofore been known in this war, and to equal it we have to go back to the military bulletins of the English when they are engaged in war.

What will the rebels think when they hear of the flight of LEE's shattered columns from Gettysburgh to Williamsport, leaving the field in our possession, with ten thousand prisoners, ten thousand wounded, and all the trophies of battle? The truth cannot always be kept back from them, and they will soon learn it, either by the capture of LEE's entire army, or by its demoralized retreat into the Shenandoah Valley.

THE PEACE SPIRIT SOUTH.—The rebels were not as anxious as usual for immediate peace when they heard of their late tremendous victory in Pennsylvania. "Let us have no peace which we do not dictate ourselves," cried the Richmond Dispatch on Wednesday last. "Peace was always impossible to us," says DAVIS' organ, the Richmond Enquirer of the same date, "save on the terms of conquering it, and conquering it in the enemy's country." War and vengeance was everywhere denounced upon the North; and they were to be dealt out unsparingly. Fire and sword were to be carried into our cities and homes, and the belt of desolation was to be forced to the northernmost limit. Such is the real spirit of the rebels, though when they learn of their great defeat we shall again hear them crying for peace.

CONSCRIPTS IN THE FIELD.—We are glad to learn by special dispatch from Washington that the men raised under the draft are not to form new regiments by themselves, but are to be assigned to fill up the old regiments in the Army of the Potomac and other armies. They will thus at once get among veteran, well disciplined, well drilled soldiers; and in a few weeks they will be quite equal to these in military capacity and power of service. The true way is to fill up the ranks of the old regiments.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WATHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 10.

RENDEZVOUS FOR DRAFTED MEN.

The following are announced as the rendezvous for drafted men for the States named:

Maine—Portland.
New-Hampshire—Concord.
Vermont—Brattleboro.
Massachusetts—Springfield.
Rhode Island and Connecticut—New-Haven, Conn.
New-York—Buffalo, Elmira, Riker's Island, New-York City.
Pennsylvania—Philadelphia, York, Pittsburgh.
New-Jersey—Trenton.
Maryland—Annapolis Junction.
Ohio—Camp Chase, Columbus; Camp Dennison, Cincinnati.

For the purpose of receiving and conducting to the several regiments the men of the draft assigned to fill them up, the commanding Generals of Departments and armies will immediately detail from each of the three year regiments of their commands belonging to the States above enumerated, three commissioned officers and six enlisted men, and direct them to report, without delay to the commanding officer of the rendezvous for their State. In States which have more than one rendezvous, the detachments for the respective regiments will be instructed to report to the commanding officer of that rendezvous nearest to which the regiment was recruited and organized.

The commandants of rendezvous will be informed of the number of drafted men to be sent to each regiment. They will lose no time in preparing detachments and placing them en route to their regiments as soon as the requisite numbers can be made up.

COURTS-MARTIAL.

Capt. SAMUEL MIDDLETON, Tenth New-York artillery, commanding Fort Staunton, for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, was sentenced to be dismissed the service by a Court-martial of which Col. C. H. ALEXANDER was President. Although there were some informalities in the proceedings, the sentence was confirmed by the President on account of the gravity of the offence.

F. E. BRAMMAN, private Co. E., Thirty-fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, for desertion, was sentenced to be shot; but this punishment was commuted to "loss of all pay, dishonorable discharge, and hard labor on the public works for the remainder of the prisoner's term of enlistment."

THE NEW POST-OFFICE LAW.

The Postmaster-General, in his instructions to Postmasters, under the new Post-office law, reduced the extreme weight allowable to packages of seeds, cuttings, roots and scions, sent free, from the former limit of 32 ounces to 16 ounces. This rule prevents a world great inconvenience and contention, owing to over the smallest packages of wheat usually distributed, another has been issued by the Postmaster-General restoring the limit of 32 ounces.

APPOINTMENT.

EDWIN B. DALE, of Vermont, is appointed Chief Examiner in the Bureau of Invalid Pensions.

ADMIRAL WILKES.

Rear-Admiral Wilkes is among the recent arrivals here.

THE REBEL PIRATES.

A Steamer Reported to be Committing Depredations on the Eastern Coast.

A Ship, Brig and Schooner Reported Destroyed.

BOSTON, Friday, July 10.

Capt. TROWBRIDGE, of the British schooner Agnes Rose, arrived here this morning from Westport, N. S., reports that on the 27th the American schooner Arkansas, of Vinalhaven, Me., Capt. WHANNEL, arrived at Westport. Capt. W. stated that a round bark-rigged steamer, of 400 tons, was cruising on the Seal Island fishing grounds, and that the Arkansas was compelled to run into port to escape capture.

A large ship, loaded with deals, and reported as belonging to Kennebunk, Me., was also seen hauled in the upper edge, she being at the time in tow of a steamer on Grand Manan Bank.

The ship was found uninsured. Nothing is known of her name, nor the circumstances of her destruction, but it was supposed to have been the work of the pirate crew of the Arkansas.

The Captain of the Agnes Rose also states that on the 8th inst., when 15 miles west of Westport, he heard heavy firing in a southe-easterly direction, which continued for two hours.

BOSTON, Friday, July 10.

In consequence of the recent report about the steamer Sumter, the commander of the Navy-yard will dispatch the United States steamers Sassacus, Monongahela and Cambridge to search after the suspected vessels. They leave this afternoon.

WOOD'S HOLL, Friday, July 10.

The fishing schooner Gamen arrived here to-day, she reports a bark-rigged rebel steamer, yesterday, 30 miles southeast of Gay Head. She had burned a brig and then made for a Provincetown fishing schooner, and burned her. The crew of the fisherman escaped in their boats to a fleet of mackerel fishermen.

A number of fishing schooners are coming into Tarpaulin Cove, to-day, to escape the pirate.

Reconstruction in Missouri.

THE ACTION OF THE LATE STATE CONVENTION DENOUNCED.

St. Louis, Mo., Friday, July 10.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at the Court-house last night, which was participated in by those opposed to the action of the late State Convention in adopting the present scheme of emancipation, in declaring slave property free from taxation, in depriving the people the privilege of voting to elect their own rulers, and refusing the people the privilege of voting on the ordinance of emancipation. Mayor FISTER presided, and CHARLES D. DRAKE, Hiram J. BOND, C. E. JOHNSON, B. GRATZ BROWN and others spoke.

Resolutions were adopted setting forth that the action of the State Convention is in last session was arbitrary, tyrannical and in opposition to the plainest principles of republican government, proving the body from which it emanated to be unworthy of the support and confidence of a free people;

That although its enactment is entitled an "ordinance for the emancipation of slaves," we regard the enactment of the Convention in no other light than a covert attempt to strengthen and perpetuate Slavery in Missouri, under the illegitimate and pretended purpose to accomplish freedom;

That the attempt to favor the owners of slaves by a body of men, the large majority of whom were large slaveholders, at the expense of others, by exempting slave property from all taxes, exhibited a spirit so narrow, and mean, and mercenary, and at the same time so unfair, as to equally merit our condemnation and contempt;

That we hold that the people of Missouri, as the citizens of a State occupying a place in this Republican Government, are entitled to the principles of popular sovereignty and the right to choose their own rulers;

That in condemning the acts of the Convention as a body, we except from our condemnation a few men, who labored to secure the people their constitutional rights and the benefits of speedy emancipation.

That in our judgment the condition of Missouri demands relief which can only be effected by emancipation—not years hence, but now; and we, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of a plan of emancipation which will be most speedy in its operation;

That we recognize in the authority of the Legislature the power to call a Convention fresh from the people, which Convention can take appropriate means for obtaining redress from the impositions practiced by the old Convention, and relieve us of the burdens entailed upon us by the institution of Slavery;

We, therefore, call upon the Legislature to order an election for members to a new Convention at as early a day as practicable, and hereby instruct our Senators and Representatives from this County to give their votes and influence to that measure;

That a Committee of Seven be appointed by the President to fix the time, place, &c., for holding the State Convention to carry out the views of this meeting.

DEAFNESS

NOISES IN THE HEAD,

Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,

CATARRH CURED

BY

DR. VON EISENBERG.

Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

NEW-YORK, May 8.

I was entirely deaf in my left ear, accompanied by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obstructed, is quite open; and I feel that the air passages perform their functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from deafness, bleeding to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.

THOMAS GREENE, No. 99 6th-st.

NEW-YORK, May 1, 1863.

I have great pleasure in testifying to the skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. His simply removing cerum, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted but a few minutes, is such as to give no pain whatever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's unsurpassing skill.

SAMUEL C. HUNT, No. 4 Montrose-st., Greenpoint, L. I.

NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for about seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am perfectly cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which distinguish mode of conducting the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 10, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and ringing noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with congealed blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. FOST, No. 29 Sixth-st.

SIGHT RESTORED.

JERSEY CITY, June 25, 1863.

My daughter brought me to Dr. Von Eisenberg almost completely blind in both eyes. I could not have the pain on the light. I am completely cured by Dr. Von Eisenberg, and could now do more than gratitude to the skill for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious senses to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to state that I have tried several oculists in vain. I shall be happy to have personal inquiry to Dr. Von Eisenberg's unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.

HUGH GILLON, No. 76 Fulton-st., Brooklyn.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head, and some times with a discharge of matter, accompanied by occasional pressure of the throat, the chills creeping over me with occasional hot flashes, against lightness of the chest and pain, or speak so, that every one thought it was the last stage of Consumption. I was cured by Dr. Von Eisenberg. Having heard of very great cures, I thought by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be restored to good my patients, and can truly say that I am a sound man. My testimony, as to the skill, is at your disposal.

AND

PARTIAL DEAFNESS

EXCLUSIVELY AND SUCCESSFULLY ADDRESS BY

DR. HARVLEY,

NO. 2 CLINTON PLACE,

NEW-YORK.

The only acknowledged Aurist in the United States who exclusively offers to extend all persons suffering from Affections of the Ear without charge until cured, thereby proving his success unequaled, and remedying the dread fear being entertained by paying self-styled aurists exorbitant fees in advance, and the infliction of yet more serious evils by prescribing the application of dangerous remedies by inexperienced and unqualified hands.

Deafness, noises in the head, and all disagreeable discharges from the ear, cured speedily and permanently, without pain, in all cases guaranteed without inconvenience, and no interruption from pursuit of business.

Persons suffering from any disease or derangement of the ear, or deafness, should not delay to consult Dr. HARVLEY without fail, and thus avoid the numerous and dangerous results of using their ears and diseases speaked in a public manner.

FINANCIAL.

LAKE ERIE AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND BONDS.

The Lake Erie and Pacific Railroad Company, to the Holders thereof, now offer for sale their entire issue of $600,000 First, and only Mortgage Bonds, bearing seven per cent. interest, payable semi-annually in the City of New-York.

These bonds are secured by a DEED OF TRUST, constituting the FIRST and ONLY lien upon the entire Road, its franchises, appurtenances, rolling stock, &c.

Its route is along the Wabash Water Valley, from Rushville to Union, a distance of about sixty miles, and passes through the richest, best cultivated and most densely populated portion of the State of Indiana.

The road is the CENTRAL SECTION of the otherwise completed TRUNK LINE, connecting the great Southwest at LOUISVILLE, Ky., on the Ohio River, and at an early day with TOLEDO and SANDUSKY, on Lake Erie.

The Company is wholly without debt (except the bonds of 1861) that being strong in its local traffic, and connecting with roads that must materially largely increase the volume of its revenue, the BOARD OF DIRECTORS, with good confidence, invite the attention of capitalists to these securities, believing that they also will certainly for a first-class investment, investment, then which, in their judgment, there is no better to be had.

The published tabulate of the Company, together with a map showing the locality and advantages of the Road, can be had from either of the Bankers of the Board of Trust, by mail, upon application, and, also, copies from the hands can only to be had.

Two Lieutenant-General, Four Major-Generals, between Fifteen and Twenty Brigadier-Generals, and Twenty Thousand Soldiers Taken Prisoners.

CINCINNATI, Friday, July 10.

The Gazette's Vicksburgh correspondent says that among the officers captured are one Lieutenant-General, four Major-Generals, and between fifteen and twenty Brigadier-Generals. The garrison comprised 22,000 men.

DETAILS OF THE SURRENDER.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

SESSIONS HOUSE H. DENEY, VICKSBURGH, Vicksburgh, Saturday, July 4, 1863.

Vicksburgh has surrendered. The name of Ulysses Grant is now inseparably connected with our national birthday. We entered the city at 10 A. M. of that day, and at high noon the flag gracefully waved over 30,000 prisoners, and small arms innumerable, and the Mississippi belonging to the Confederate service.

At about 7 A. M., July 3, a flag of truce was seen upon the rebel breastworks. An officer was sent to receive it.

All firing ceased, and thousands of men thronged the parapets to see the fair with whom they had contended forty-two days, each concealed from the other. The men of both sides gazed in wonderment. No arms were visible—only men, and the earthworks were alive. In some salients, where we thought there might be twenty, there stood one hundred. All looked like men who labor in mills or lime-quarries. Slouched hats, shirts and pants were the uniform. But little was said, though in some places the men were not more than ten or fifteen feet apart.

The bearers of dispatches to our General were fine-looking men, of martial bearing and brave mien, clad in grey, close-fitting uniforms and French caps, mounted on fine but thin horses.

They were conducted blindfolded to the tent of Gen. A. K. SMITH, whose front they had entered. They were escorted to the rebel Gen. SEVEN BUREARDS, to remain until his relief from the quarters of Gen. GRANT, five miles away. They conversed of old times—of Shaw, of the Kennedy, Blair, and Moore Gen. BOWEN of Fort Gibson, Gen. TERRY, and Col. MCCULLOCH, of Virginia. After taking a glass of wine, Gen. BOWEN remarked that his bandage was uncomfortable, and it was very warm. Gen. BURBRIDGE had them unloosed.

After more than hour's conversation, their answer came, and they were again blindfolded, and returned to their own works. Still the men sat in silence. Not a gun was fired in that part of the works. All wondered what it meant. The purport of it was this:

Gen. GRANT: To prevent the further effusion of blood and loss of life, I propose that hostilities cease for ——— hours, and that you appoint three Commissioners, and I three, to confer upon conditions of surrender, though I can hold out indefinitely.

(Signed) ——— PEMBERTON.

To which Gen. GRANT replied:

As to your first proposition, it is for you to avail at (any time) as to the second, I see no necessity for that, as there can be no conditions of surrender. We can tell her witness to your endurance and bravery, and will treat you with all the respect due prisoners of war. (Signed) U. S. GRANT.

Gen. PEMBERTON then collected a personal interview, which was granted by GRANT at three P. M. The latter, with his Staff, appeared on the hills where our advance works were. Here the parts halted, until Gen. PEMBERTON appeared, accompanied by Gen. BOWEN and Col. MCCULLOCH. On the crest of the opposite hills were rifle-pits and forts, crowded with men. In the notch in a grove of fruit trees of fine and peaches, met the contending heroes. Thousands of soldiers looked upon this strange scene. Two men who had been Lieutenants in the same regiment in Mexico, now met as foes.

When they had approached within a few feet there was a long and silence.

Col. MONTGOMERY spoke—"Gen. GRANT, Gen. PEMBERTON." They shook hands politely. It was evident PEMBERTON was mortified. He said: "I met at Snodgrass and Seven Vista. We had terms and conditions there."

Gen. GRANT then took him aside. They sat down on the grass and talked more than an hour. GRANT smoked all the time. PEMBERTON played with the grass and pulled leaves. GRANT finally agreed to parole them, allowing the officers each his horse. It was a pathetic thing. The dread of going North, and the fear of harsh treatment, had deterred them from surrendering sooner. He proposed to surrender and saved thousands upon thousands of dollars in their war accumulations and fifteen. They feared the Fourth of July. Our men would fall out at night, that the Fourth would finish them, and it was so arranged. By this we have saved thousands of lives. Both armies are gratified with the result. Our men treat them with kindness, giving them coffee, which some of them have not tasted for a year.

The city is much dilapidated. Many houses are injured. The Vicksburgh paper of May 7 of which I send you extracts by mail, admits the eating of mule meat and the pilfering of soldiers in private houses. Mrs. Cisco, wife of an officer in the artillery service, was killed last Monday in the city. General GAZAN, formerly of Missouri, was killed last week. Colonel GARRIX, of the Thirty-first Louisiana regiment, was also killed.

There seems to be much suffering there from sickness and our missiles.

Johnston is still in our rear. The steamer from the Yazoo River and Yazoo City Friday dropped down to the levee, when your correspondent bade farewell to the tour.

Our boat was fired into at the foot of Island 82, and struck with shell and ball. Fifteen shots passed through, most of them in the cabin. The cabin is almost a ruin. Strange to say no one was hurt.

Gen. PRICE, with 8,000 men, attacked Helena on the 4th. He carried one fort, but was shelled out with great loss. The gunboats did splendidly. Our force was about 4,000. In the afternoon PRICE began his retreat, and was on the evening of the 5th twenty-five miles away. He is anxious to cross the Mississippi to join BRAGG or JOHNSTON. His loss will reach near 2,000 in killed, wounded and missing. Ours 300. It will be remembered that he was the attacking party. The negro troops did well.

Lieut. W. M. DUNN is bearer of dispatches from Gen. GRANT.

Col. MAYLAND, Special Agent Post-office Department, opened an office in Vicksburgh on the 5th. We left that place at high noon on the 4th.

IMPORTANT FROM TENNESSEE.

Gen. Rosecrans' Campaign Virtually Ended.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Friday, July 10.

Citizens of Franklin and Spring Hill report the country north of the Tennessee River filled with deserters from BRAGG's army—mostly Tennesseans—to the number of from 10,000 to 15,000. They refused to leave the State.

Gen. ROSECRANS' army retains its position, the line of the Elk River. The campaign is virtually ended.

The army of the Cumberland now hold Winchester and Stevenson. The river is falling. The water on the shoals is eight feet deep.

The Louisville train arrived on time.

THE WAR IN THE WEST.

The Rebels Reported Operating on the Ohio River.

CINCINNATI, Friday, July 10.

It is reported this morning that the rebel forces are operating on the Ohio River, between this city and Louisville, with the intention of capturing passing boats.

The Invasion of Indiana, &c.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, July 10.

Martial law was declared in Paris-ville to-day.

The last advices at headquarters place the enemy between Corydon and New-Albany, Ind., about fifteen miles from the latter, with our forces under Hobson in close pursuit.

THE DRAFT.

IT BEGINS TO-DAY.

The Ninth District First in the Field.

WHO MUST GO AND WHO ARE EXEMPT.

The announcement in the TIMES, of Friday, that Capt. MAHANAY, of the Eighth Congressional District, had completed his arrangements for the proposed draft, and had issued his formal notice to the able-bodied citizens of the Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Wards, that the drawings would take place at the District Headquarters on Monday next, produced the most lively excitement amongst the people of the City, and brought home to them, for the first time, as reality, that which for months has been an expectation, and, to a certain extent, a byword and a joke. In justice to our people, it must be recorded that the kindest universal expression is that of satisfaction and acquiescence in the wisdom and propriety of the measure.

Captain and Assistant Provost-Marshal Jenkins, of the Ninth District, must be entitled to the honor of being first in the field with the actual proceedings. By information from those who should know, it was stated that the Eighth District was the only one ready, and upon the one in which the draft would first be made, and so far as public notice was concerned, that fact remained undisputed. In so early a time, however, as seven o'clock this morning, it appears in the van, and at 9 o'clock this morning, it public, at his headquarters at No. 677 Third-avenue will open the games, which will result in the conscription of several thousands of our most desirable citizens.

THE NINTH DISTRICT

Embraces the Twelfth Ward, (including Randall's Island and Ward's Island,) the Nineteenth Ward, (including Blackwell's Island,) and the Twenty-second Ward. Of these, the Twelfth Ward is bounded south by Eighty-sixth-street, west by North River, east by East River, and north by Harlem River and Spuyten Duyvel Creek. The Nineteenth Ward is bounded north by Eighty-sixth-street, east by East River, south by Fortieth-street, and west by Sixth-avenue. The Twenty-second Ward is bounded north by Eighty-sixth-street, east by Sixth-avenue, south by Fortieth-street, and west by Hudson River.

THE BOARD OF ENROLLMENT

Consists of Capt. CHAS. E. JENKINS, Assistant Provost-Marshal General; JOHN M. SAMMIS, Commissioner; Wm. H. THOMPSON, Surgeon.

The number of names drafted and boxed ready for the draft in this District is 5,000. The number to be drawn is 1,500.

In view of the absolute certainty of to-day's proceedings, it becomes a matter of the greatest interest to every citizen to know first

WHO CAN BE DRAFTED?

In answer to this question the act expressly declares that "All able-bodied male citizens of the United States, and persons of foreign birth who shall have declared on oath their intention to become citizens under and in pursuance of the laws thereof, between the ages of 20 and 45, with certain exceptions, to be subject to draft."

Those persons being enrolled, are divided into two classes, the first of which comprises all persons subject to do military duty between the ages of twenty and thirty-five years, and all unmarried persons subject to do military duty above the age of thirty-five and under the age of forty-five; the second class comprises all other persons subject to do military duty. The latter are not to be called into the service of the United States until those of the first class have been called. The enrollment of each class has been made separately, and they should embrace those whose ages were on the 1st instant between twenty and forty-five years. All persons enrolled are subject for two years after the 1st instant, to be called into the military service of the United States, and to continue in service for three years, or during the war, and when called into service are to be placed on the same footing in all respects, as volunteers during the present rebellion; not, however, exceeding the term of three years, including advance pay and bounty, as now provided by law.

And in regard to those who are thus drafted, the following

have been prepared:

Any person drafted and notified to appear may, on or before the day fixed for his appearance, furnish an acceptable substitute to take his place in the draft, or he may pay to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the Congressional District in which he may reside, the sum of $300. On the receipt of this sum the Collector of Internal Revenue will give drafted persons paying it duplicate receipts. One copy of these receipts will be delivered to the Board of Enrollment on or before the day in which the drafted person is required to report for duty, and whose name furnished to the Board, one drafted person will be furnished by the Board with a certificate of exemption, stating that such person is discharged from further liability under that draft, by reason of having paid the sum of $300. Any person failing to report after due service of notice as herein prescribed, without furnishing a substitute, or paying the required sum therefor, shall be arrested by the Provost-Marshal and sent to the nearest military post for trial by Court-martial, unless, upon proper showing that he is not liable to military duty, the Board of Enrollment shall relieve him from the draft. All drafted persons will, on arriving at the rendezvous, be inspected by the surgeon of the Board, who will report to the Board the physical condition of each one; and all persons drafted and claiming exemption from military duty on account of disability, or any other cause, shall present their claims to be exempted to the Board, whose decision will be final. As soon as the required number of able-bodied men liable to do military duty shall be obtained from the list of those drafted, the remainder are required to be discharged. The persons drafted are to be assigned by the President to military duty in such corps, regiments or other branches of the service as the exigencies of the service may require.

It having thus satisfactorily been established as to who are liable to be drafted, a second question of hardly less public interest presents itself, viz.,

WHO ARE EXEMPT?

The act very clearly defines that exceedingly limited class in the

"Such as are rejected as physically or mentally unfit for the service; also, first, the Vice-President of the United States, the Judges of the various Courts of the United States, the heads of the various Executive Departments of the Government, and the Governors of the several States. Second, the only son liable to military duty of a widow dependent upon his labor for support. Third, the only son of aged or infirm parent or parents dependent upon his labor for support. Fourth, where there are two or more sons of aged and infirm parents subject to draft, the father, or, if he be dead, the mother, may elect which shall be exempt. Fifth, the only brother of children not twelve years old, having neither father or mother, dependent upon his labor for their support. Sixth, the father of motherless children under twelve years of age dependent upon his labor for their support. Seventh, where there are a father and sons in the same family and household, and two of them are in the military service of the United States as non-commissioned officers, musicians or privates, the residue of such family and household, not exceeding two, shall be exempt. Provided, however, That no person who has been convicted of any felony shall be enrolled or permitted to serve in said forces."

THE FORMS OF AFFIDAVITS

are rigidly specified, and can be found over the signature of the Provost-Marshal Jenkins, in the advertising columns of the TIMES of to-day.

On Monday, Capt. MAHANAY will present with the draft in his District, (Eighth,) as was announced in yesterday's TIMES. The other Districts will follow in due course, as they may severally be ready.

Preparations for the Draft in Brooklyn.

Orders have been received by Capt. J. B. GREGORY, Provost-Marshal of the Third Congressional District, (Brooklyn,) and Capt. SAMUEL T. MASON, Provost-Marshal of the Second Congressional District, (Williamsburgh and the country towns,) to prepare at once for the draft. The enrollment has been completed in both Districts, and the final arrangements, such as preparing slips containing the names and ages of persons enrolled, are being made as speedily as possible. In Capt. GREGORY's office fifty clerks are employed at this business, and it is expected that the names will be drawn on Wednesday or Thursday next, it being impossible to have everything in readiness before that time.

The Second Congressional District comprises the Sixth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Wards of the City, and the Towns of Flatbush, Flatlands, New-Lots, New-Utrecht and Gravesend. The total number enrolled is 23,155, of which 22,363 are of the first-class from which the draft will be made.

The Third District comprises the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth and Nineteenth Wards of Brooklyn. The total number enrolled is 27,000, of which there are 14,300 of the first-class, from which 2,500 names are to be drawn.

Each ward and town is designated as a sub-district, and a proportionate number will be drawn from each. No one ward will be required to aid in filling up the quota of another ward.

Soldiers in active service of the 3d of March last are understood to be exempt from the first and second drafts—that is, provided they have been honorably discharged.

The Examining Board of the Third District, to whom Provost-Marshal Gregory will be drawn, consists of Capt. E. R. GREGORY, Provost-Marshal; Dr. NELSON E. NOBLE, Surgeon; Lieut. M. BERRY, Commissioner.

The slips from which the names of all persons

[illegible]

[illegible] are white, are of white paper, about six inches in length and one inch in width. Each slip is folded lengthwise and secured with an India-rubber band. These rolls will be placed in a revolving box, and shaken out by a blindfolded person. The slips then being drawn and passed on to a desk in a bank prepared for that purpose, the person drawn will be notified, and required to appear before the Examining Board within five following ten days, to report for duty, or pay $300 to the Collector of Internal Revenue, who will be present for that purpose. If physically disabled, they will be released from further obligations.

The announcement that the draft will take place has caused a good deal of excitement amongst all classes interested, and is the general subject of conversation all over the city.

The Draft in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Friday, July 10.

The drafted men of Massachusetts, some 22,000 in number, will rendezvous, it is expected, at Springfield, under the command of Gen. DEVENS, who is recovering from wounds received at Chancellorsville.

The Draft Progressing.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 10.

The draft is progressing in all the New-England States, and Pennsylvania and New-York. As the enrollment is completed in each of the various districts, a certain proportion of men is designated. It is certain that the entire number to be called out in all of the States has not been designated.

POSTSCRIPT.

SATURDAY, 2 O'CLOCK A. M.

THE INVASION OF INDIANA.

CAPTURE OF SALEM BY THE REBELS

The Home Guards in Pursuit of Morgan.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 10.

The rebels captured Salem, Ind., this morning, burned the depot of the Louisville and Chicago Railroad and took 300 of the guards prisoners. No particulars of the fight have been received. A prisoner who escaped reached Seymour this morning. He says Morgan's forces were 7,000 strong, with six pieces of artillery.

Morgan left Salem this afternoon, moving eastward. It is supposed for the purpose of striking the Indianapolis and Louisville Railroad at Vienna and Seymour. Gen. HOBSON, with 4,000 cavalry, was in close pursuit, being but 15 miles in the rear. When last heard from, the rebels were at Canton.

The Home Guards were retarding the progress of the rebels by felling trees and backwoodsing.

Gov. MORTON has issued a general order suspending all business till further orders.

Brig.-Gen. CARRINGTON has assumed command of the Indiana militia, and has already assigned the large portion of companies reported to regiments and brigades. At least 50,000 will have reported for duty to-morrow morning.

SURRENDER OF VICKSBURGH.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, July 4, 1 P. M.
HEAD-QUARTERS, Friday, July 10.

Vicksburgh surrendered this morning after a siege of forty-seven days, terminating in negotiations lasting twenty four hours. Gens. GRANT and PEMBERTON had an interview yesterday afternoon. The last note of Gen. SLAUGHTER, containing the political terms of Gen. GRANT, did not reach here till 9 o'clock to-day.

Gen. LOGAN's division marched into the city at 11 o'clock, and at noon Lieut.-Col. STONE hoisted the Stars and Stripe over the Court-house.

Col. WILSON is Provost-Marshal of the City, and Gen. LOGAN is Commander of the Post.

We have taken over 27,000 prisoners, besides about 4,000 non-combatants, 102 field pieces, 30 siege guns, 50,000 stand of arms; ammunition, locomotives, cars, a few stores, 57 stand of colors. Among the prisoners are Lieut.-Gen. PEMBERTON, Maj.-Gens. S. SMITH, BOWEN, and FORREST and BOWEN, fourteen Brigadier-Generals and about one hundred and thirty Colonels.

There are 5,000 men in the hospital, half of whom are wounded. Only 150 of the garrison are reported fit for duty. The stock of provisions was almost exhausted, and for four days numbers had been eating mule flesh. Of ammunition for heavy guns they had a fair supply, but for field guns and musketry they were short. Eight caps to a man were allowed. They had an excess of sugar, molasses and rice, and these were all the supplies they had except a little unground corn.

The capitulation was caused by destitution and prostration, hastened perhaps by the expectation that our forces would storm the place to-day. It is admitted by all that the rebels made a gallant defence, and the terms were understood to be concessions of Gen. GRANT to their bravery as well as a measure of great public economy.

Vicksburgh is much damaged by shells. Hardly a house escaped. Our soldiers treated their late enemy with great friendliness. Both sides are feeling great relief from the hardships and sufferings of the siege.

Fifty steamers are at the landing.

The Fourth of July has never been celebrated so strongly or so earnestly.

Gen. PEMBERTON denies the authorship of the speech attributed to him about holding out till the last dog was eaten.

A Card—Union Pacific Railway Company Bonds.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Referring to your article on the Union Pacific Railway Company, of the 3d instant, we deem it proper to caution all interested against negotiating or exchanging bonds bearing that title issued by any parties without showing due authority, as prohibiting contracts may be at once prohibition in the legality of bonds of that character.

It seems to be a part of a scheme to mislead parties who may not be familiar with the circumstances and legal acts in regard to them. It is to be hoped the public will (in case bonds of the above description should be presented for their consideration) examine all the facts connected with them well, before investing their funds in a security which may prove invalid.

OFFICE OF THE QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL FOR THE STATE OF KENTUCKY, FRANKFORT, Ky., June 16, 1863.

Major S. B. Show, St. Louis, Mo.:

DEAR SIR: I am just in receipt of your favor of June 13, asking my opinion of the "Wesson Cartridge Rifle." I am pleased to inform you that portions of two regiments of Kentucky cavalry have been armed with this rifle for the last twelve months. The reports from them of the efficiency of this arm are very satisfactory. They are all pleased with it, and would not change it for any other. I have practiced with this gun repeatedly from sixty to three hundred yards. It shoots with great accuracy and force.

Any assistance in my power in connecting for you and will afford me pleasure. Very respectfully, your obedient servant, T. E. ROBINSON,
Quartermaster-General, Kentucky.

OPERATIONS ON THE PENINSULA.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, July 9.

Maj.-Gen. DIX and Staff arrived at Fortress Monroe last evening, and report that the expedition has been a perfect success. Gen. GREEN's division crossed over the Pamunkey River near the White House, following near the river to the South Anna branch, where they destroyed the Central Railroad bridge, and not being able to reach the bridge of the Fredericksburgh road, they tore up and destroyed about six miles of the track.

Having effectually destroyed all communication between Richmond and Lee's army, they returned yesterday morning to White House, and our troops have crossed that place before this time. Gen. DIX's troops have removed all available property from White House, including six engines, several cars and from five to six miles of the York and Richmond Railroad from. Gen. DIX removed from White House in conformity with the orders he received from Washington.

The National Finances.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 10.

The General Subscription Agent reports the sale of $673,000 Five-Twenties on Thursday, and $664,700 to-day. The delivery of bonds are being made to June 24. These large sales, which are made amid the continued startling military movements, are exceedingly encouraging to every friend of the Union. The establishment of National banks also will attract large amounts, and with reasonable success of loading the army and navy, they must sell above par before the close of the present year.

Democratic State Convention of Iowa.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Friday, July 10.

The Democratic State Convention, after an excited and stormy session, adjourned at 2 o'clock this morning. MARCUS L. FISHER, of Clayton County, was nominated for Governor, and J. T. Buckmaster, of Webster County, for Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. FISHER was voted for by the Mahoney men.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT IS A NEW THING.—Nothing like it has ever been before offered to the public. It is not a combination of rubber, gutta percha, or glue. It sticks patches and linings to boots and shoes sufficiently strong without stitching. It mends broken furniture, crockery, ivory, bone, ivory, and all articles of household use. It is a liquid, and is easily applied as common paste. It is insoluble in water or oil. It adheres oily substances firmly and completely. Put up in packages for family and manufacturers' use, from two ounces to a hundred pounds. For sale at all stores. Hilton Brothers, Cor. Pine and Pine streets, Providence. Office corner of Dyer and Pine streets.

THE LAST DAY.—Yes, to-day closes the exhibition of Barnum's of those extraordinary small persons Gen. Tom Thumb & Co. They are already advertised to appear elsewhere on Monday next. THE FALL OF VICKSBURGH.

One Lieutenant-General, Four Major-Generals, between Fifteen and Twenty Brigadier-Generals, and Twenty Thousand Soldiers Taken Prisoners.

CINCINNATI, Friday, July 10.

The Gazette's Vicksburgh correspondent says that among the officers captured are one Lieutenant-General, four Major-Generals, and between fifteen and twenty Brigadier-Generals. The garrison comprised 20,000 men.

DETAILS OF THE SURRENDER.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

SEMMES' JOHN H. DIBRIL, VICINITY OF VICKSBURGH, Saturday, July 4, 1863.

Vicksburgh has surrendered. The name of Gen. GRANT is now inseparably associated with our national birthday. We entered the city at 10 A. M. of that day, and at high noon the flag gracefully waved over 20,000 prisoners, and small arms innumerable, and the finest rifle batteries in the Confederate service.

At about 7 A. M., July 3, a flag of truce was seen upon the rebel breastworks. An officer was sent to receive it.

All firing ceased, and thousands of men thronged the parapets to see the foe with whom they had contested forty-two days, each concealed from the other. The men of both sides gazed in wonderment. No arms were visible—only men, and the earthworks were alive. In some salients, where we thought there might be twenty, there seemed one hundred. All looked like men who labor in pallid ice-houses or stone-quarries. Slouched hats, shirts and pants were the uniform. But little was said, though in some places the men were not more than ten or fifteen feet apart.

The bearers of dispatches to our General were fine-looking men, of martial bearing and brave mien, clad in gray, close-fitting uniforms and French caps, mounted on fine battlin horses.

They were conducted blindfolded to the test of Gen. U. S. GRANT, whose front they had entered. They were escorted to the test of Gen. SHERMAN BUREANDS, to remain until his return from the quarters of Gen. GRANT, five miles away. They conversed of old times more than of the present. Their names were Gen. BOWEN, of Port Gibson memory, and Col. MONTGOMERY, of Virginia. After taking a glass of wine, Gen. BOWEN remarked that his horse was shoeless, and it was very warm. Gen. BURBANNAN had them unhoosed.

After more than hour's conversation, their escorts came, and they were again blindfolded, and returned to their own works. Still the men sat in silence. Not a gun was fired in that part of the well. All wondered what it meant. The purport of it speaks!

Gen. GRANT: To prevent the further effusion of blood and loss of life, I propose that hostilities cease for the present, and that you appoint three commissioners, and I three, to confer upon conditions of surrender, though I can hold out indefinitely.

(Signed) PEMBERTON.

To which Gen. GRANT replied:

As to your first proposition, it is for you to avail at any time; as to the second, I see no necessity for that, inasmuch as no conditions of surrender. We can all hear witness to your endurance and bravery, and will treat you with all the respect due prisoners of war. (Signed) U. S. GRANT.

Gen. PEMBERTON then solicited a personal interview, which was granted by GRANT at three P. M. The latter, with his Staff, appeared on the hills where our advance works were. Here the party halted, until Gen. PEMBERTON appeared, accompanied by Gen. BOWEN and Col. MONTGOMERY. On the crest of the opposite hills were rifle-pits and forts, crowded with men. In the assault in a grove of fruit trees the dead peaches, said the consoling heroes. Thousands of soldiers looked upon this strange scene. Two men who had been Lieutenants in the same regiment in Mexico, now met as foes.

When they had approached within a few feet there was a halt and silence.

Col. MONTGOMERY spoke—"Gen. GRANT, Gen. PEMBERTON." They shook hands politely. It was evident PEMBERTON was mortified. He said: "I was at Monterey and Buena Vista. We had terms and conditions there."

Gen. GRANT then took his seats. They sat down on the grass and talked more than an hour. GRANT smoked all the time. PEMBERTON played with the grass and pulled leaves. GRANT finally agreed to parole them, allowing the officers each his horse. It was a polite thing. The crest of going North, and the fear of harsh treatment, had deterred them from capitulating sooner. He proved his magnanimity and saved the country upwards of thousands of dollars in the way of transportation and rations. They feared the Fourth of July. Our men would call out at sight, that the Fourth would finish them, and it was so arranged. By this we have saved thousands of lives. Both armies are gratified with the result. Our men treat them with kindness, giving them coffee, which some of them had tasted for 2 years.

The city is much dilapidated. Many houses are injured. The Vicksburgh paper of July 3, of which I send you extracts by mail, admits the eating of mule meat and the pilfering of soldiers in private houses. Mrs. CLOUD, wife of an officer in the artillery service, was killed last Monday in the city. General GARDE, formerly of Missouri, was killed last week. Colonel GRIFFIN, of the Thirty-first Louisiana regiment, was also killed.

The troops to be much suffering there from sickness and our missiles.

Johnston is still in our rear. The steamer from the Yazoo River and Young's Point dropped down to the levee, when your correspondent bade farewell to the war.

Our boat was fired into at the foot of Island 82, and riddled with shell and ball. Fifteen shots passed through, most of them in the cabin. The cabin is almost a ruin. Strange to say no one was hurt.

Gen. GRANT has 30,000 men, without counting the 6th. He carried one fort, but was shelled out with great loss. The gunboats did splendidly. Our force was about 4,000. In the afternoon PEMBERTON began his retreat, and was on the evening of the 5th twenty-five miles away. He is anxious to cross the Mississippi to join BRAGG or JOHNSTON. His loss will reach near 5,000 in killed, wounded and missing. Once 500. It will be remembered that he was the attacking party. The negro troops did well.

Lieut. W. M. DUNN is bearer of dispatches from Gen. GRANT.

Col. MARSHALL, Special Agent Post-office Department, opened an office in Vicksburgh on the 5th. We left that place at high noon on the 4th.

REJOICINGS IN ST. LOUIS, MO.

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 10.

A grand demonstration is in preparation for to-morrow night in honor of the recent glorious victories East and West. All places of business will be closed at noon at the request of the mayor, and general rejoicing be the order of the day. Thousands of flags will be thrown to the breeze, and the city promises to be bathed in a flood of light.

IMPORTANT FROM TENNESSEE.

Gen. Rosecrans' Campaign Virtually Ended.

NASHVILLE, TENN., Friday, July 10.

Citizens of Franklin and Spring Hill report the country north of the Tennessee River filled with deserters from Bragg's army—mostly Tennessees—to the number of from 10,000 to 15,000. They refused to leave the State.

Gen. ROSECRANS' army retains its position, the line of the Elk River. The campaign is virtually ended.

The army of the Cumberland now hold Winchester and Shelbyville. The river is falling. The water on the shoals is eight feet deep.

The Louisville train arrived on time.

THE WAR IN THE WEST.

The Rebels Reported Operating on the Ohio River.

CINCINNATI, Friday, July 10.

It is reported this morning that the rebel forces are operating on the Ohio River, between this city and Louisville, with the intention of capturing passing boats.

The Invasion of Indiana, &c.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, July 10.

Martial law was declared in Paducah to-day.

The last advices of headquarters place the enemy between Corydon and New Albany, Ind., about 35 miles from the latter, with our forces under Burnside in close pursuit.

THE DRAFT.

IT BEGINS TO-DAY.

The Ninth District First in the Field.

WHO MUST GO AND WHO ARE EXEMPT.

WHAT IS A PHYSICAL DISABILITY.

The announcement in the TIMES, of Friday, that Capt. MARTENAS, of the Eighth Congressional District, had completed his arrangements for the proposed draft, and had issued his formal notice to the able-bodied citizens of the Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Wards that the drawings would take place at the District Headquarters on Monday next, produced the most intense excitement amongst the people of the City, and brought home to them, for the first time, as reality, that which, for months has been an expectation, and, to a certain extent, a by-word and a joke. In justice to our people, it must be recorded that the almost universal expression is that of satisfaction and acquiescence in the wisdom and propriety of the measure.

Captain and Assistant Provost-Marshal JENKINS, of the Ninth District, must be entitled to the honor of being first in the field with the actual procedure. On information from those who should know, it was stated that the Eighth District was the only one ready, and was the one in which the draft would first be made, and so far as public notice was concerned, that fact remains undisputed. In to-day's TIMES, however, due notice is given that taking time, or at least 48 hours of it, by the forelock, Capt. JENKINS appears in the van, and at 9 o'clock this morning, in public, at his headquarters at No. 677 Third-avenue will open the game, which will result in the conscription of several thousands of our most desirable citizens.

THE NINTH DISTRICT

Embraces the Twelfth Ward, (including Randall's Island and Ward's Island,) the Nineteenth Ward, (including Blackwell's Island,) and the Twenty-second Ward. Of these, the Twelfth Ward is bounded south by Eighty-sixth-street, west by North River, east by East River, and north by Harlem River and Spuyten Duyvel Creek. The Nineteenth Ward is bounded south by Eighty-sixth-street, east by East River, south by Fortieth-street, and west by Sixth-avenue. The Twenty-second Ward is bounded north by Eighty-sixth-street, east by Sixth-avenue, south by Fortieth-street, and west by Hudson River.

Consists of Capt. CHAS. E. JENKINS, Assistant Provost-Marshal General; JOHN M. SAYRE, Commissioner; WM. H. TUCKERMAN, Surgeon.

The number of names ticketed and boxed ready for the draft in this District is 3,000. The number to be drawn is 1,500.

In view of the absolute certainty of to-day's proceedings, it becomes a matter of the greatest interest to every citizen to know first

WHO CAN BE DRAFTED?

In answer to this question the act expressly declares that "All able-bodied male citizens of the United States, and persons of foreign birth who shall have declared on oath their intention to become citizens under and in pursuance of the laws thereof, between the ages of 20 and 45, with certain exceptions, to be subject to draft."

Those persons being enrolled, are divided into two classes, the first of which comprises all persons subject to do military duty between the ages of twenty and thirty-five years, and all unmarried persons subject to do military duty above the age of thirty-five and under the age of forty-five; the second class comprises all other persons subject to do military duty. The latter are not to be called into the service of the United States until those of the first class have been called. The enrollment of each class has been made separately, and they should embrace those whose ages were on the 1st instant between twenty and forty-five years. All persons enrolled are subject for two years after the 1st instant, to be called into the military service of the United States, and to continue in service for three years, or during the war, and when called into service are to be placed on the same footing, in all respects, as volunteers during the present rebellion; not, however, exceeding the term of three years, including advance pay and bounty, as now provided by law.

Any person drafted and notified to appear may, on or before the day fixed for his appearance, furnish an acceptable substitute to take his place in the draft, or he may pay to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the Congressional District in which he may reside, the sum of $300. On the receipt of this sum, the Collector of Internal Revenue will give drafted persons paying it duplicate receipts. One copy of these receipts will be delivered to the Board of Enrollment on or before the day in which the drafted person is required to report for duty, and when so delivered to the Board, the drafted person will be furnished by the Board with a certificate of exemption, stating that such person is discharged from further liability under that draft, by reason of having paid the sum of $300. Any person failing to report after due service of notice as herein prescribed, without furnishing a substitute, or paying the required sum therefor, shall be arrested by the Provost-Marshal and sent to the nearest military post for trial by Court-martial, unless, upon proper showing that he is not liable to military duty, the Board of Enrollment shall relieve him from the draft. All drafted persons will, on arriving at the rendezvous, be inspected by the surgeon of the Board, who will report to the Board, the physical condition of each one; and all persons drafted and claiming exemption from military duty on account of disability, or any other cause, shall present their claims to be exempted to the Board, whose decision will be final. As soon as the required number of able-bodied men liable to do military duty shall be obtained from the list of those drafted, the remainder are required to be discharged. The persons drafted are to be assigned by the President to military duty in such corps, regiments or other branches of the service as the exigencies of the service may require.

It having thus satisfactorily been established as to who are liable to be drafted, a second question of hardly less public interest presents itself, viz.:

WHO ARE EXEMPT?

The act very clearly defines that exceedingly limited class to be:

"Such as are rejected as physically or mentally unfit for the service; also, first, the Vice-President of the United States, the Judges of the various Courts of the United States, the Heads of the various Executive Departments of the Government, and the Governors of the several States. Second, the only son liable to military duty of a widow dependent upon his labor for support. Third, the only son of aged infirm parent or parents dependent upon his labor for support. Fourth, where there are two or more sons of aged and infirm parents subject to draft, the father, or, if he be dead, the mother, may elect which son shall be exempt. Fifth, the only brother of children not twelve years of age, having neither father or mother, dependent upon his labor for their support. Sixth, the father of motherless children under twelve years of age dependent upon his labor for their support. Seventh, where there are a father and sons in the same family and household, and two of them are in the military service of the United States as non-commissioned officers, musicians or privates, the residue of such family and household, not exceeding two, shall be exempt: Provided, however, That no person who has been convicted of any felony shall be enrolled or permitted to serve in said forces."

being one of such exceeding wide limits, the United States Medical Department at Washington have deemed it well to specify such diseases and infirmities as may be considered of sufficient gravity to exempt a drafted person, and they are as follows:

1. Manifest imbecility or insanity.
2. Epilepsy. For this disability the statement of the drafted man is insufficient. It must be positively established by the duly attested affidavit of a physician of good standing who had attended him in a convulsion.
3. Paralysis, general or of one limb, or shown; their existence to be adequately determined.
4. Acute or organic diseases of the brain or its membranes, of the heart or lungs; of the kidneys or intestines; of the kidneys or bladder, sufficient to have impaired the general health, or so well marked as to leave no reasonable doubt of the man's incapacity of military service.
5. Confirmed consumption; cancer; aneurism of the large arteries.
6. Inveterate and extensive diseases of the skin, which will necessarily impair the efficiency of a soldier.
7. Decided feebleness of constitution, whether natural or acquired.
8. Scrofula or constitutional syphilis, which has resisted treatment and seriously impaired the general health.
9. Habitual and confirmed intemperance or solitary vice to a degree sufficient to have materially enfeebled the constitution.
10. Chronic rheumatism, unless manifested by positive change of structure, wasting of the affected limb, or pufiness or distortion of the joint, does not exempt. Impaired motion of joints and contraction of the limbs alleged to arise from rheumatism, and in which the nutrition of the limb is not manifestly impaired, are to be proved by examination while in a state of amelioration induced by either only.
11. Pain, whether stimulating headache, neuralgia in any of its forms, rheumatism, lumbago, or affections of the muscles, bones or joints, if a system of disease so easily pretended that it is not to be admitted as a cause for exemption unless accompanied with manifest derangement of the general health, wasting of a limb, or other positive signs of disqualifying local disease.
12. Great injuries or diseases of the skull, occasioning impairment of the intellectual faculties, epilepsy or other manifest disease or apparently symptomatic.
13. Total loss of sight; loss of sight of right eye; extent; loss of a cataract; loss of left eye.
14. Other serious diseases of the eye affecting its integrity and use, e. g., chronic ophthalmia, fistula lachrymalis, ectropion, trichiasis, etc. Myopia, unless very decided, or depending upon some structural change in the eye, is not a sufficient disability.
15. Loss of nose; deformity of nose so great as seriously to obstruct respiration; ozena, dependent upon caries in progress.
16. Complete deafness. This disability must not be admitted without clear and satisfactory proof.
17. Caries of the superior or inferior maxilla of the nasal or palate bones, if in progress; left palate (bony) extensive loss of substance of the cheeks, or salivary fistula.
18. Dumbness; permanent loss of voice; not to be admitted without clear and satisfactory proof.
19. Total loss of tongue, mutilation or partial loss of tongue, perceptible to the unaided eye, sufficient to interfere with the necessary use of the organ.
20. Hypertrophy or atrophy of the tongue, sufficient in a degree to impair speech or deglutition; chronic chronic elongation of the tongue.
21. Stammering, if incurable and confirmed; to be established by satisfactory evidence under oath.
22. Loss of a sufficient number of teeth to prevent proper mastication of food and tearing the cartridge.
23. Incurable dislocation or loss of part of either jaw, hindering biting of the cartridge or proper mastication, or greatly injuring speech; anchylosis of lower jaw.
24. Tumors of the neck, impeding respiration or deglutition; fistula of larynx or trachea; laryngocele, if of long standing and well marked.
25. Wry neck, if the chin be sufficiently to impede respiration, or to prevent the carrying of arms and military equipments; caries of the ribs.
26. Deficient amplitude and power of expansion of chest. A man five feet three inches (minimum standard height) for his height must have a chest measure less than thirty inches in circumference immediately above the nipples, and have an expansive mobility of not less than two inches.
27. Abdomen grossly protuberant; excessive obesity; fistula in ano; inguinal or other hernia.
28. Artificial anus; stricture of the rectum; prolapsus ani. Fistula in ano is not a positive disqualification, but may be so if extensive or complicated with visceral disease.
29. Old and ulcerated internal hemorrhoids, if in degree sufficient to impair the man's efficiency. External hemorrhoids are no cause for exemption.
30. Total loss or nearly total loss of penis; epispadia or hypospadia at the middle or near the root of the penis. Incurable permanent organic stricture of the urethra, in which the urine is passed drop by drop, or which is complicated by disease of the bladder; urinary fistula. Recent or spasmodic strictures of the urethra does not exempt.
31. Incontinence of urine, being a disease frequently feigned and of rare occurrence, is not of itself a cause for exemption. Stone in the bladder, ascertained by the introduction of the metallic catheter, is a positive disqualification.
32. Loss or complete atrophy of both testicles from any cause, permanent retention of one or both testicles within the inguinal canal; but voluntary retraction does not except.
33. Confirmed or malignant varicocele by trouble, if complicated with organic disease of the testicle. Varicocele Are not in themselves disqualifying.
34. Excessive anterior or posterior curvature of the spine; lateral curvature.
35. Wounds, fractures, tumors, atrophy of a limb, or chronic diseases of the joints or bones, that would impede marching, or prevent continuous muscular exertion.
36. Anchylosis or irreducible dislocation of the shoulder, elbow, wrist, hip, knee or ankle joint.
37. Muscular or cutaneous contractions from wounds or burns, to degree sufficient to prevent useful motion of the limb.
38. Total loss of a thumb; loss of surgical phalanx of the right thumb.
41. Total loss of two fingers of same hand.
42. Total loss of index finger of right hand.
43. Loss of the first and second phalanges of the fingers of right hand.
44. Permanent extension or permanent contraction of any finger except the little finger; all the fingers adherent or united.
45. Total loss of either great toe; loss of any three toes on the same foot; all the toes joined together.
46. The great toe crossing the other toes with great prominence of the articulation of the metatarsal bone and first phalanx of the great toe.
47. Overriding, or superposition of all the toes.
48. Permanent retraction of the last phalanx of one of the toes, so that the free border of the nail bent upon the ground; and the loss of a right toe, or the first phalanx of a toe upon a second with antichlosis of this particular toe.
49. Club foot; splay feet, where the arch is so far effaced that the tuberosity of the scaphoid bone touches the ground; and the loss of a tarsal run along the whole internal border of the foot, with great prominence of the inner ankle; but ordinary large, ill-shaped or flat foot is not exempt.
50. Varicose veins of inferior extremities, if large and numerous, having obstacle to varicose and accompanied with chronic swellings or ulcerations.
51. Chronic ulcers; extensive, deep, and adherent cicatrices of lower extremities.
52. No certificate of a physician or surgeon is to be received from any person claiming the exemption of drafted men for exemption for militia service, unless the facts and statements therein set forth are affirmed or sworn to before a civil magistrate competent to administer oaths.
57. The exempts under the first provision of section 28 of the act for enrolling and calling out the national forces, &c., will generally be sufficiently well known to the Board to obviate the necessity of evidence with regard to them. Should, however, the Board consider it necessary in any case, the commission or certificate of office of any person claiming exemption under the provision mentioned, may be required to be shown.
58. To establish exemption under the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth provisions of Section 2 of the act for enrolling and calling out the national forces, &c., the Board shall require the affidavit of the persons seeking to be exempt, and of two respectable citizens (Needs of families,) residing in the district, that the man in question is "the only son of aged or infirm parents or parents dependent on his labor for support," or otherwise, according to the particular provision of the section under which the exemption is claimed. The affidavits will be made according to the forms hereinafter prescribed, and must in all cases be taken before a civil magistrate duly authorized to administer oaths. These forms of affidavit shall be published by the Board of Enrollment, in the newspapers of the district, for the information of the public when a draft is ordered.

are rigidly specified, and can be found over the signature of the Provost-Marshal JENKINS, in the advertising columns of the TIMES of to-day.

On Monday, Capt. MARTENAS will proceed with the draft in his District, (Eighth,) as was announced in yesterday's TIMES. The other Districts will follow in due course, as they may severally be ready.

Preparations for the Draft in Brooklyn.

Orders have been received by Capt. J. B. GREGORY, Provost-Marshal of the Third Congressional District, (Brooklyn,) and Capt. SAMUEL T. MASON, Provost-Marshal of the Second Congressional District, (Williamsburgh,) and the vicinity (Jamaica,) to prepare at once for the draft. The enrollment has been completed in both Districts, and the final arrangements, such as preparing slips containing the names and ages of persons enrolled, are being made as speedily as possible. In Capt. GREGORY'S office fifty clerks are employed at this business, and it is expected that the names will be drawn on Wednesday or Thursday next, it being impossible to have everything in readiness before that time.

The Third District comprises the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fifteenth and Thirty-fourth Wards of Brooklyn. The total number enrolled is 27,000, of which there are 14,280 of the first-class, from which 3,600 names are to be drawn.

Each ward and town is designated as a sub-district, and a proportionate number will be drawn from each. No one ward will be required to aid in filling up the quota of another ward.

Soldiers in active service on the 24 of March last, are understood to be exempt from the first and second draft—that is, provided they have been honorably discharged.

The Examining Board of the Third District, in whose presence the names will be drawn, consists of Capt. S. B. GREGORY, Provost-Marshal; Dr. NELSON L. NORTH, Surgeon; ABNER M. BERRY, Commissioner.

The slips upon which the names of all persons liable to be drafted are written, are of white paper, about six inches in length and one inch in width. Each slip is neatly rolled up and secured with an India rubber band. The whole roll will be placed in a revolving box, and drawn out by a man blindfolded. The name will then be announced and placed on record in a book prepared for that purpose. Those drafted will be notified, and required to appear before the Examining Board within the following ten days, to report for duty, or pay $300 to the Collector of Internal Revenue, who will be present for that purpose. If physically disabled, they will be released from further obligations.

The announcement that the draft will take place has caused a good deal of excitement amongst all classes interested, and is the general subject of conversation all over the city.

The Draft in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Friday, July 10.

The drafted men of Massachusetts, some 32,000 in number, will rendezvous, it is reported, at Springfield, under the command of Gen. DEVENS, who is now covering from wounds received at Chancellorsville.

The Draft Progressing.

WASHINGTON, Friday, July 10.

The draft is progressing in all the New-England States, and Pennsylvania and New-York. As the enrollment is completed in each of the various districts, a certain proportion of men is designated. It is certain that the entire number to be called out in all of the States has not been designated.

OFFICE OF THE QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL FOR THE STATE OF KENTUCKY, FRANKFORT, KY., June 15, 1863.

Major S. B. Sharp, St. Louis, Mo.:

DEAR SIR: I am just in receipt of your favor of June 13, asking my opinion of the "Wesson Cartridge Rifle." I am pleased to inform you that portions of two regiments of Kentucky cavalry have been armed with this rifle for the last twelve months. The reports from them of the efficiency of this arm are very satisfactory. They are all pleased with it, and would not change it for any other. I have practiced with this gun repeatedly from one to five hundred yards. It shoots with great accuracy and force.

* * * * * * *

Any assistance I can give you in contracting for this arm will afford me pleasure. Very respectfully, your obedient servant, T. F. ROBINSON,

Quartermaster-General, Kentucky.

OPERATIONS ON THE PENINSULA.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, July 9.

Maj.-Gen. Dix and Staff arrived at Fortress Monroe last evening, and report that the expedition has been a perfect success. Gen. Carr's division crossed over the Pamunky River near the White House, following near the river to the South Anna branch, where they destroyed the Central Railroad bridge, and not being able to reach the bridge of the Fredericksburgh road, they tore up and destroyed about six miles of the track.

Having effectually destroyed all communication between Richmond and LEE'S army they returned yesterday morning to White House, and our troops have evacuated that place before this time. Gen. Dix's forces have removed all available property from White House, including an engine, several cars and from five to six miles of the York and Richmond Railroad iron. Gen. Dix removed from White House in conformity with the orders he received from Washington.

The National Finances.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, July 10.

The General Subscription Agent reports the sale of $875,000 Five-Twenties on Thursday, and $600,000 to-day. The delivery of bonds are being made in June 24. These large sales, which are made amid the excitement attending military movements, are exceedingly encouraging to every friend of the Union. The establishment of National banks alone will absorb large amounts, and, with reasonable success attending the army and navy, they must sell above par before the close of the present year.

Democratic State Convention of Iowa.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Friday, July 10.

The Democratic State Convention, after an excited and stormy session, adjourned at 3 o'clock this morning. MATURIN L. FULLER, of Clayton County, was nominated for Governor, and J. F. DUSCOMB, of Webster County, for Lieutenant-Governor. Mr. FULLER was voted for by the McManey men.

A Card—Union Pacific Railway Company Bonds.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Referring to your article on the Union Pacific Railway Company, of the 8 instant, we deem it proper to caution all interested against negotiating or exchanging bonds bearing that title issued by any parties without showing due authority, as predicting contracts may be an entire prohibition to the legality of bonds of that character.

It seems to be a partial scheme to mislead parties who may not be familiar with the circumstances and legal title of Vermont to their bonds. It is to be hoped the public will, (in case a bonds of the above description should be presented for their consideration) examine all the facts connected with them well, before investing their funds in a security which may prove invalid.

HILTON'S INSOLUBLE CEMENT IS A NEW THING.—Nothing like it has ever been before offered to the public. It is not a combination of rubber, gutta percha, or glue. It sticks patches and linings to boots and shoes, articles of strong leather, stitching, it makes a broken furniture, crockery, toys, bone, ivory, and all articles of household use. It is a liquid, and as easily applied as common paste. It is insoluble in water or oil. It adheres oily substances firmly and completely. Put up in packages for family and manufacturers' use, from two ounces to a hundred pounds. For sale at all stores. HILTON BROS. & CO., Proprietors, Providence. Office corner of Dyer and Pine streets.
